Great Kids Mean More Scholarships

Club nearly triples the number of Scholarship recipients, due to quality of submissions. Zavala takes top honors.

CLUB HEADQUARTERS

– Members sent in so many great submissions for the Club Scholarship 2008 program that the Club nearly tripled the number of winners!

And the Club is proud to announce that Jorge Zavala, son of Jose Zavala, Airports, has won the top prize: $3,500 toward college expenses.

"We were amazed at the quality of scholarship applications we received this year," said John Hawkins, Club CEO. "We feel honored to increase the number of grants we provide, from five or six to 14.

"It's all because of the great people we have as Club Members."

Zavala graduated from Hesperia High School in June and now attends the University of California, Irvine, as a scholar and baseball player. "Life is such a wonderful thing, and we must enjoy it," he wrote in his scholarship essay. "The whole world is in front of us; all we have to do is take advantage."

* A Message From the CEO *

I love ClubFest. No doubt about it.

by John Hawkins President and CEO, The Club

 $W^{\rm hat's}$ the best part of it for you? Some (especially the guys!) love the food. The games are fun. The live music rocks. Everyone loves the great raffles, of course. Even the puppet show brings smiles to everyone's faces.

There's plenty to love about ClubFest!

But let me tell you my two favorite things about it. First, I just love being outdoors in the open, clean air, with blue sky and trees. Like most of you, I presume, I live in the City. And I love it. But there's nothing like getting into the great outdoors on a beautiful day. And I know that many of you enjoy that, too.

The other thing I love is the camaraderie, the feeling that, when we all come together, it really is special. Club Members are not just a group of people who happen to work for the same employer; any company or institution can pull that together. But ClubFest shows that people who work for the City really do have a fun outlook and great character in common. That's what the Club is all about.

Thanks to Robert Larios and The Ticket Guy for producing what's sure to be another great ClubFest.

CEO John Hawkins and son Isaiah enjoying the foam at a past ClubFest.

Well, let's see, in other news ... as you know, the Club is for everyone who works for the City: young and old, GMs and rookies, etc. But this month, there was a lot of news about General Managers with strong Club connections. I want to wish huge congratulations to Club Member Tony Royster for his permanent appointment to the GM position at General Services. Tony has been a big supporter of the Club since its very first days. He's been happy for our success, and now we return the favor.

Also, we say goodbye to City Librarian Fontayne Holmes, another great friend of the Club who retired after a "storied" career with the Library. I have to say, the project that built or refurbished almost 100 new libraries in the City a few years ago was one of the most impressive projects I've seen, and Fontayne is to be congratulated for it. A few years ago, Alive! did a big two-part story on the new libraries, and Fontayne really welcomed us. Congratulations on a great career with the City, Fontayne. Godspeed.

And finally, we're happy to report on BongHwan Kim, Neighborhood Empowerment, and Sally Choi, LACERS, as the first two Asian-American General Managers in City history. Congratulations!

There are a couple of really exciting things happening at The Ticket Guy's Club Store. I'm glad he's telling everyone in this issue about the Club's E-ticket service, where he can send your Disneyland or SeaWorld tickets right to your email inbox. We're the only City association who can do that; it's part of our great customer service.

And don't miss one of the Club Store's "Hot Tickets" -Walking With Dinosaurs. This is a hugely popular national tour (kids just love dinosaurs!), and it's quite a coup that The Ticket Guy was able to snag some tickets – and offer them to you at the great Club discount, of course. Get 'em while you can!

Well, I write this just before Labor Day. That's an important day for all of us – both here at the Club, and among those who work for the City. We appreciate all you do for the citizens of Los Angeles. The City is grateful.

Have a great September.

LETTER OF THE MONTH

Councilmembers Should Follow LaBonge by Thanking Employees

At the July 17th City employee appreciation barbeque, from left: John Hawkins, Club CEO; Tom LaBonge, Councilman, District 4; Alan Willis, Transportation, 21 years of City service; Jeanne Min, Council District 4 Director of Finance; and Zaki Mustafa, Chief of Field Operations, Transportation.

I went to the event at Friendship Park that Tom LaBonge and his staff put together last month, and I really think that more of the City Council should do things like this for the community and the City Employees who work in each of the Council districts. It really lifts morale for everyone, and it makes us think that the top people who run the City really care about us. Now I'm thinking that Tom LaBonge is a leader for the people, and this is the kind of leadership we need in the City for years to come. Others should look to him as a perfect example.

New Animal Adoption Column's A Pet Project for Animal Lover

I really like the pet club column; it's right down my alley. I have three cats and three dogs already with the help of Animal Services. It is downright hard to turn the page after seeing these adorable cats and dogs. It makes me want to adopt more of these fury critters!

— Gina Thompson, General Services

We agree, Gina. Channel 35 took the lead with its very popular Home Shopping Petwork, and we sought a way to take that concept and translate it for the newspaper. But we were a little concerned that it takes a long time from when Animal Services submits the material, to when we publish. But Animal Services' great rep, Mikki Shaler, places holds on the animals featured in Alive! So get out there and take a look at these great, pre-screened pets. As you know, they can change your life. —Ed.

Why Not Sell Other City Gear, Like Ties, Backpacks and Undies?

The convenience is super with the Club Store just a block away from my office at Parker. Let me say that the Club Store is very classy as well. I think the store, along with its shirts, should offer more stuff like sweatshirts and pants, backpacks, shorts and even underwear.

Yes, I wrote it! Underwear!

Hmmm, and maybe some City of LA ties for the office types?

Last thing, I really like those comfy leather sofas – they're worth the short trip to the store by themselves.

- Billy Lawndale, LAPD

We're happy to pass along your suggestions to Robert Larios, the Club's Director of Operations, and the Ticket Guy. We'll pass them along ... with the exception of the underwear. We'll leave that to you, next time you visit those nice comfy leather sofas! —Ed.

Spay/Neuter: It's the Law

Spay or neuter your pet: It's the law. Enforcement begins Oct. 1.

On Feb. 12, the City Council approved a new law that requires all cats and dogs in the City to be spayed or neutered after the age of four months, with some specific exemptions allowed. Mayor Antonio Villaraigosa signed this ordinance into law Feb. 26, making Los Angeles the national leader in efforts to humanely decrease the number of pets abandoned and euthanized each year.

If you live in the City, Animal Services has several programs to assist with the cost of the sterilization of your companion animal at participating veterinary hospitals.

Newsbriefs

NEW DEPUTY MAYOR:

On Aug. 4, Mayor Antonio Villaraigosa announced the appointment of foster care, homelessness and early development policy veteran Miriam Long as Deputy Mayor for Education, Youth and Families.

"Miriam is an inspired addition to our team who brings years of know-how and a thorough understanding of the issues that matter most to families in Los Angeles," Villaraigosa said.

For 12 years, Long has served as a key policy adviser to Los Angeles County Supervisor Yvonne Burke on all issues related to foster care, seniors, homelessness, early childhood development and child care, LAUP, the First 5 Commission and the County Department of Public Social Services.

In her new role, Long will oversee education issues and services for children and families in the City. She will also serve as a top-level liaison with the City's departments of Recreation and Parks, Disability and Cultural Affairs, the Los Angeles Public Library, El Pueblo and the Commission on Children Youth & Their Families.

As Supervisor Burke's lead deputy for reforming Los Angeles' overwhelmed foster care system, Long was a major force behind a nationally-acclaimed "Point of Engagement" program in the County that emphasizes early, upfront assessment and family services for children at risk of entering foster care.

Under the program, the Department of Children and Family Services – instead of immediately removing a child from a household – works with community partners to provide the child's family with comprehensive services to keep the child safely within the home.

During Long's tenure, foster care placements in the County dropped from 70,000 children in 1997 to under 20,000 in 2008.

In addition to launching the POE pilot project that was replicated County-wide, Long shepherded a similar program through the County's First 5 Commission, bringing $50 million into County services for children at risk of abuse and neglect.

Before joining Supervisor Burke's office, Long served for five years as the Manager of Government and Public Affairs for the Metropolitan Transportation Authority, where she managed a $16 million Hollywood Construction Impact Program, served as the City Council liaison for the Executive Director, and supervised a team of consultants of transportation projects in the Western side of Los Angeles

Long has also served as a legislative analyst for the City of Los Angeles for six years and a ratings specialist for Standard & Poor's for three years. She graduated from the University of Southern California with a Bachelor of science degree in public administration and has a Master's degree in public policy from Princeton University.

CONVENTION BUSINESS SOARS:

Mayor Antonio Villaraigosa today announced that downtown revitalization efforts have resulted in a record high number of convention bookings that will pump hundreds of millions of dollars into the Los Angeles economy.

The Los Angeles Convention and Visitors Bureau booked an unprecedented 53 Citywide conventions in fiscal year 2007/08, with a projected economic impact of $360 million. This 29 percent increase over last year's record-setting bookings – coupled with a 22 percent increase in hotel room nights booked – bodes well for Los Angeles' growing reputation as a hot convention destination.

"The tourism and travel industries are keeping us strong despite a slowdown in the national economy and we are adding new attractions to make sure this upward trend continues," Mayor Villaraigosa said. "The record high number of convention bookings in Los Angeles is a testament to the strength of the hospitality sector, which is a cornerstone of our local economy."

The big increase in convention bookings is in large part attributable to downtown LAs resurgent nightlife, which has greatly benefited from the opening of L.A. LIVE and Nokia Theater. LA's efforts to attract conventions have also benefited from direct involvement from Mayor Villaraigosa and executives from AEG, which owns L.A. LIVE.

City Librarian Fontayne Holmes retires from Los Angeles Public Library after 34 years of City service.

City Librarian Fontayne Holmes joined Mayor Antonio R. Villaraigosa, Dist. 15 Councilmember Janice Hahn, Library Commission President Robert A. Chick, State Librarian Susan Hildreth and other dignitaries Feb. 1 to cut the ribbon announcing the opening of the new Harbor City-Harbor Gateway Branch Library, at 24000 S. Western Ave.

 Γ ontayne Holmes, City Librarian for the City of Los Angeles, retired from the Los Angeles Public Library in August. Holmes was responsible for the administration of the City's library system, which serves four million people—the largest population of any library in the United States—through the Central Library, 71 branches and online resources at www.lapl.org. Holmes also oversaw the department's $120 million budget and 1,200 employees.

A retirement party was held in her honor at the Central Library July 10. Councilmembers Wendy Greuel and Tom LaBonge presented Fontayne with a City Resolution in recognition of her strong leadership that has made the Library Department a model for libraries around the world, and for her exemplary dedication to public service. A crowd of more than 200 staff and retired library employees, Board of Library Commission members, City officials and community members, and other invited guests turned out to wish her farewell.

A 34-year veteran with the department, Holmes' accomplishments include successfully building 64 branches on time and under budget in the largest library construction program in the nation. She also spearheaded the restoration of library service following the 1992 civil unrest that destroyed two branches and the devastating 1994 Northridge earthquake that damaged and closed more than 30 branches. Following both disasters, Holmes restored full library service within a year.

"Fontayne Holmes has served the people of Los Angeles admirably for 30 years at the Library and as the City Librarian has shepherded the Library system into a new era, with greater access, more resources and on-target programming for all Angelenos," Los Angeles Mayor Antonio Villaraigosa said.

During Holmes' tenure, the Los Angeles Public Library has become more popular than ever, experiencing record levels of use. Last year, more than 16 million people visited the library, more than 15 million books and other items were checked out, and Web-based services and resources were accessed more than 115 million

"It has been an honor to work with great staff in fulfilling the public trust by building new libraries and expanding library services across the City," Holmes said. "It has been even more rewarding to see people in every neighborhood use their library and its services in record numbers, and to see how much they value the Los Angeles Public Library.'

Holmes has served as City Librarian since 2004. She previously served as Assistant City Librarian, Central Library Director, Director of Library Facilities and Director of Branch Library Services, among others.

For the past 20 years, Holmes has guided the library's massive branch library building program, which is the largest in the nation and was completed on time and under budget. Under Holmes' leadership, the program rebuilt more than 90 percent of the City's libraries, doubled library space to more than 1.4 million square feet citywide and increased the number of libraries from 62 to 71 branches. Cost savings and efficiencies allowed libraries to be added to the program, which was funded through two bonds passed by voters in 1989 and 1998. Holmes played a key role in effectively leveraging the original $232-million in bond funding into $317 million, which provided funds to build additional libraries.

Holmes' other notable accomplishments include increasing library hours to provide equity of access to all neighborhoods and expanding the Adult Literacy Centers to 19 libraries. Holmes is also recognized for her success in bridging the "digital divide" by expanding the library's technology system to include 2,300 public access computer terminals in libraries citywide and expanding the library's offerings of electronic resources to include downloadable electronic resources including, books, music, films and audiobooks.

Holmes has made services to youths a high priority by implementing new programs such as "Live Homework Help," a service that provides real-time on-line tutoring; "Student Smart" seminars that help teens improve study habits and practice SAT/ACT test taking; and "Let's TLK," a series that help kids explore alternatives to gangs and other at-risk activities.

As City Librarian, Holmes also served as an ex officio board member of the Library Foundation of Los Angeles, which raised more than $30 million during her tenure for enhancements to Library programs and services.

Holmes received many honors in recognition of her leadership and vision including the Urban Libraries Council Urban Player Award and UCLA's "Distinguished Alumni Award."

A Wayans at the Library

Actress and author Kim Wayans and her husband, Kevin Knotts, read to children at two library branches. One more reading is set for September.

Authors Kim Wayans and Kevin Knotts read segments from their "Amy Hodgepodge" children's book series at two Library branches in August, and one more reading is set for September.

The "Amy Hodgepodge" series explores the life of a multiracial child who, after years of being home-schooled, attends public school for the first time and finds it difficult to fit in and make friends. The series tells the story of a shy young girl who receives the nickname "Amy Hodgepodge" because of her mixed African-American, Caucasian, Japanese and Korean heritage. After moving to a new town, Amy and her dog, Giggles, use a scrapbook to document her adventures as she deals with being "unique," making friends and navigating elementary school.

The readings were followed by question and answer sessions.

The first reading was held Aug. 11 at the Echo Park branch. The second reading was held Aug. 12 at the Baldwin Hills branch.

You can still be a part of the reading series, as one more is scheduled in September. That reading by Wayans and Knotts is to be held at 2 p.m. Sept. 21 at the Central Library's KLOS Theater. The Central Library is at 630 W. Fifth St. downtown.

Wayans and Knotts, a husband-and-wife writing team, are also actors based in Los Angeles. They were inspired to write the series by their nephews and nieces, many of whom are of mixed race, and by the observation that with every generation, we are all "becoming more of a hodge-podge." Sharing the series with children at the Library is the perfect setting, the couple said.

"Some of my fondest memories from child-hood are of the library and getting lost in imaginary worlds through the magic of reading,"

Wayans said. "For me to be able to share 'Amy Hodgepodge' with children in a place that was so sacred and special to me as a child, is incredibly gratifying."

Summer Camp at the Library

Library's Camp LAPL Summer Literacy Program promotes library services to disadvantaged youths.

Summer camp 2008 took on a new meaning at the seventh annual Camp LAPL, a literacy program benefiting disadvantaged children hosted July 14-18 by Los Angeles Public Library's downtown Central Library. The program is designed to bring children living in shelters and hotels from nearby downtown neighborhoods to the library and introduce them to library services, Reading Clubs and other resources.

During the Camp LAPL week, the children participated in storytelling workshops, magic shows, science projects, crafts and performing arts. They also received a docent tour of the historic Central Library and were treated to a puppet show in the Children's Literature Department. The participants were selected from Los Angeles Unified School District's targeted programs.

"Children come back to the library throughout the year," said Ilene Abramson, director of Children's Services. "We see them working on their homework, using the computers and attending programs."

Camp LAPL communicates to children that libraries are non-threatening, informative and entertaining places open to everyone. The program is supported through the Library Foundation of Los Angeles and sponsored by the Union Pacific Foundation, Betty McLaughlin and Richard Neri.

DEPARTMENT SPOTLIGHT: Environment / LA

Toward a Green L.A.

Environmental Affairs Dept. continues striving to make L.A. a world leader in environmental responsibility.

By Yvonne Liu, Office of Finance

The City's Environmental Affairs Department seeks to protect and enhance the environmental quality of life for residents, communities, workers and visitors in the City by: recommending environmental policies and programs to the Mayor and City Council; implementing and coordinating Citywide environmental initiatives; securing and assisting others in securing resources for the implementation of environmental initiatives; facilitating public education; providing assistance to businesses; responding to requests for information on environmental issues; and ensuring that solid waste facilities in the City are operated in a manner that protects the public health, safety and environment.

Four of the department's main focuses are green enforcement, managing and slowing climate change, sustainability and green building.

The Environmental Affairs Dept.'s new Assistant General Manager, Beth Jines, is helping to forge a new future for the City.

Beth Jines came to the City in August 2007 from California state programs, having worn hats as the Chief Deputy Director of the State Water Board and the Assistant Secretary for Water and Waste Management at Cal/EPA.

"[The biggest difference between] a state position and a City position is that the environmental issues are much more personal to the Councilmembers, to the employees and to the residents of the City," she explained. "At the state, the issues are, for the most part, more regional, less personal and take longer to have an effect. At the City, the effects of government action are more immediate and more personal," she said.

She is frequently impressed by the quality of the work her employees produce and the level of expertise that they possess.

"Environment/LA employees have shown me that incredibly talented and well-educated people work here in the City," she said.

In October 2007, the City Council convened for two days to discuss the future of the environment for Los Angeles. Two major themes emerged from those hearings - the need for City-wide strategies to address climate change, and sustainability. The department of 35 employees went through a thorough reorganization and realignment to meet these new research objectives that focus on climate change, air quality, sustainability, adaptability and vulnerability. As part of the reorganization, EAD has changed to Environment/LA and has developed a new portal to environmental information for the City: EnvironmentLA.org Mainly, these topics are interconnected in the sense that poor air quality and a climate change of increasing temperature will cause increased draughts and wildfires, as well as storms, to become more severe. Adaptability means how humans and wildlife will adjust to these changes, including rising sea levels, hotter temperatures and the use of more energy to cool or warm our habitat. More severe fires, doubled number of heat waves per year and more intensive storms mean public health is exposed to new threats.

"We want to make the City of Los Angeles the leader in environmental change," Beth said.

So far, 15 departments have completed Climate Change Action Plans, and all departments have completed Sustainability Plans. These departments, including large ones such as the DWP and Rec and Parks, have pledged to become more sustainable in their operations. Specifically, they will curb their carbon emissions and increase more green space in future planning.

Saving the environment sounds like a daunting task. Can we really stop global warming dead in its tracks?

"If we act together as a world, we can effect the severity of global warming," Beth said.

Los Angeles as Environmental Leader

os Angeles pioneered many of the Lmost innovative environmental improvements in the country. Southern California's notoriously poor air quality has forced local governments to invest in clean air technology.

As proprietors of the largest port complex and municipal utility in the country, Los Angeles has also been able to institutionalize environmental improvements beyond City boundaries. Finally, there is an "environmental consensus" among civic leaders, community organizations, nonprofits, and the business community. Working as allies, this broad coalition has helped advance sustainability initiatives.

- Fuel-cell vehicles: Los Angeles is the first city in the country (second in the world) to incorporate hydrogen fuel-cell vehicles into its municipal fleet.
- Ultra-low sulfur diesel (ULSD):

Los Angeles was the first large city to demonstrate ULSD (15 parts per million sulfur or less) in heavy-duty applications. General Services (GSD) converted to ULSD for all diesel engines, including those in vehicles and stationary generators, three years before required by regulations.

- Solid waste diversion/recycling rates: Los Angeles established the nation's first curbside combined ("blue-bin") recycling program and has surpassed the state-mandated municipal solid waste diversion rate of 50 percent, currently boasting a 62 percent
- Alternative-fuel refuse trucks: The City owns and operates the largest municipal alternative-fuel refuse truck fleet in the United States, with 262 vehicles

- operating on natural gas.
- Green city buildings: All new City buildings of more than 7,500 square feet must be built to standards under the LEED system. The City has constructed, or is in the process of constructing, 47 LEED-certified buildings. Including completion of the first LEED Platinum public building in the country, the Lakeview Terrace Public Library, Los Angeles has invested more than $890 million in green building construction.
- Solar roofs: The DWP has provided more than $50 million in customer incentives to install photovoltaics to generate electricity, representing about 10 megawatts of solar capacity.
- Traffic signal controls: Los Angeles boasts an extensive ATSAC system at 3,226 intersections, which provides realtime ability to monitor and modify signal timing according to current traffic conditions. Studies show the system reduces vehicle idling time, and associated pollutants, by 10 percent.
- Green power purchases: LAWA purchases 15 percent of its electrical power through the DWP's Green Power program, helping to fund the purchase and installation of renewable energy for the
- Biogas to energy: The Hyperion Treatment Plant, the largest wastewater plant on the West Coast, sends methane gas produced during the digester process to the City's Scattergood Generating Station, producing 80 percent of its electricity.
- Building energy retrofits: Los Angeles has completed energy efficiency retrofits on 63 City-owned buildings, generating savings of nearly 731,000 kilowatt-hours to date, or the equivalent reduction of 502 tons of CO2.

Tony Royster, who had been interim General Manager of General Services since the retirement of Alvin Blain in March, was appointed to the permanent position July 16 by Mayor Antonio Villraigosa.

Friends, coworkers, family and the City Council joined him in a swearing-in ceremony in City Clerk chambers in July. Here's the oath he took, as specified in City Charter Section 215:

"I do solemnly swear that I will support the Constitution of the United States and the Constitution of the State of California and the Charter of the City of Los Angeles, and that I will faithfully discharge the duties of the office of General Manager and City Purchasing Agent, Department of General Services, according to the best of my ability."

Royster has 25 years of shared experience in General Services and general services management in both the public and private sectors. From 2004 until March 2008 he has served as the Assistant General Manager of General Services Administration and Building Support, serving as Acting General Manager as necessary, and directing the activities of 11 units in this section: Office of Public Safety, Budget and Finance, Accounting, Payroll, Personnel Services, Emergency Preparedness, Parking, Custodial, Mail, Recycling and Special Events. He has helped develop the Department's annual budget of $261 million; overseen accounting for $500 million in expenditures; and directed an operational staff of 1,300 employees and personnel activities for 3,000 employees.

Previous to this, Royster served as General Services' Chief Management Analyst from 2001 to 2004 and as General Service's Director of Building Services from 1993 to 2001, where he directed activities for four Departmental Divisions: Parking, Mail, Custodial and Recycling; lead the consolidation of 100 LAPD Custodians into GSD's existing staff; developed work standards for a staff of 300 employees; and increased employee productivity by 50 percent.

From 1985 to 1993, Royster was a District Manager for American Building Maintenance Industries in Los Angeles, managing 100 facilities for building maintenance and preventative maintenance, and Area Manager for Southeast Service Corporation in Memphis, Tenn., directing operations for building maintenance-related services for commercial and retail properties.

Royster has been awarded a number of achievement and service honors over the last dozen years, including the City of Los Angeles Productivity Awards for 1993, 1995, 1997, 1998, 2002 and 2006; the City of Los Angeles Career Service Award in 2001; the U.S. Conference of Mayors Recycling Awards in 1989 and 1999; and the International Professional Manager Association Distinguished Service Award in 1907

Royster holds an Educational Specialist Degree (ED.S.) in administration and supervision from Tennessee Technological University, and a Master's degree in administration and supervision from the University of Tennessee, where he also earned a Bachelor's degree in human services.

OBITUARY

Lorraine Acosta

Remembering Gonzalo Acosta

Transportation employees hold fundraisers in memory of Gonzalo Acosta, who died trying to save his daughter in a swift river.

Story and photos courtesy Zaki Mustafa, Transportation

On June 28, Gonzalo Acosta, Assistant Signal System Electrician, Transportation, lost his life in a swift river incident. He was 38 and was assigned to the Central Yard Traffic Signal Construction Division at the time of his death.

Gonzalo, his wife, Lorraine, and their four children were attending a weekend getaway at the Kern River with family and friends. His 16year-old daughter and his wife, Lorraine, were enjoying their time at the river when his daughter accidentally got swept into the rough waters. Lorraine and several others attempted to make a human chain to reach her and pull her out of danger. Gonzalo jumped into the water and pushed her toward her mother. He managed to get his daughter to safety, but he tired from his efforts and succumbed.

The Kern County Sheriff's office conducted a search and rescue effort, and within a day, his Transportation family and friends took personal time off to go to the river and assist in the search. At press time, his body has not been recovered.

His extended Transportation family found ways to support the Acosta family. A Department-wide bulletin was e-mailed, and many donations were collected. At the Transportation picnic July 19, his coworkers set up a memorial table, and funds were raised for the Acosta family.

On July 23, his extended Transportation family — Signal Systems Electrician, Lou Barrera, his wife, and the rest of the Central Yard family --held a lunch fundraiser. This luncheon was a huge success. Other departments participated, including the LAPD; the LAFD; the DWP; Public Works Engineering, Street Lighting, Street Services and Sanitation; and General Services. Lou Barrera raised more than $11,000 for the family that day.

A future pancake breakfast fundraiser at Transportation headquarters is pending.

An account has been established for the Acosta family at Wells Fargo Bank to accept donations. Please make checks payable to: Acosta Family Support Fund, memo line: Account # 5307321116. You may walk in to any

E-Tickets: Your Ticket to Convenience

Club Store and Service center now delivers Disneyland, SeaWorld tickets to your email. Take advantage!

As part of its dedication to great service to City Employees, the Club one year ago introduced an E-ticket system, to deliver your Disneyland and SeaWorld tickets right to your email box.

The test succeeded!

More Disneyland and SeaWorld tickets are delivered via email now outnumber those picked up physically at the Club Store, and those sent by U.S. Mail.

And there's no postage fee. The E-ticket system adds nothing to the Club's already low prices on tickets.

"We're working on bringing other events and attractions to the E-ticket system," said the Club's Ticket Guy, Navin Cotton. "We expect Universal Studios to begin in October, and Legoland sometime after that. And then, we hope, more!"

The Club is the only City association to offer the E-Ticket service to City Employees. You can't get this service anywhere else.

"People love our E-ticket system," the Ticket Guy said. "Everyone should take advantage of this great Club service.

"Give it a try!"

Here's how to take advantage of the Club's E-ticket system:

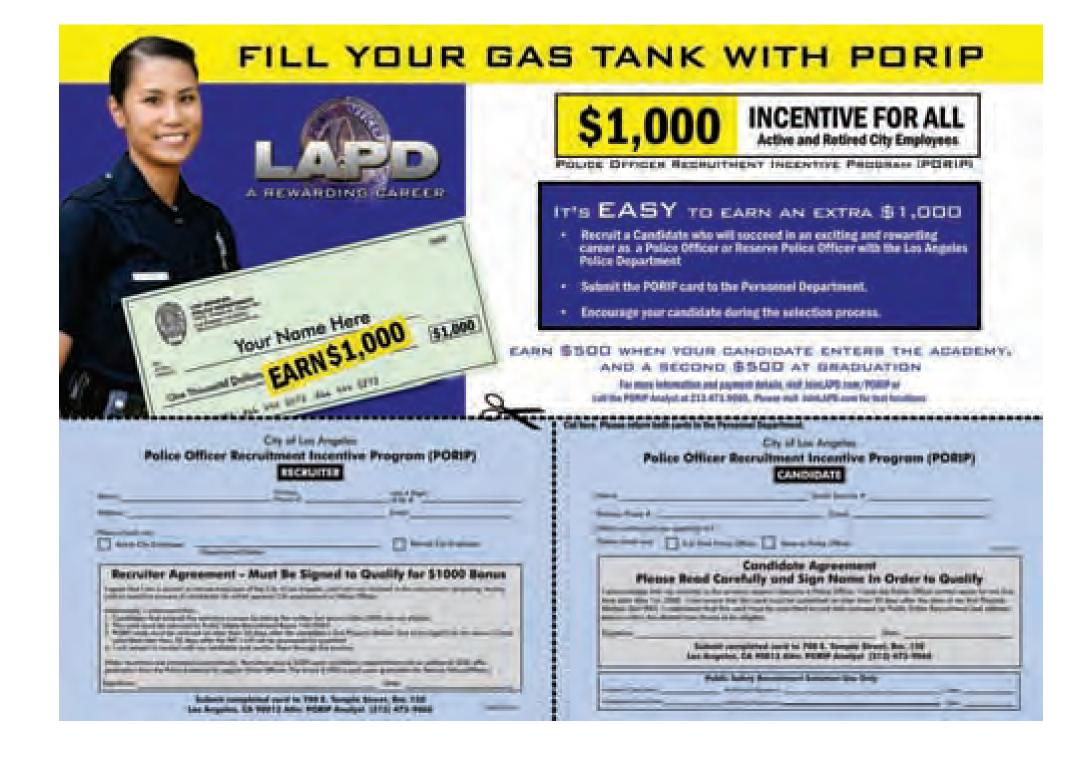

- Order your tickets with the great Club discount as you normally would – by using the Club Store's Website; by calling the Club's Ticket Hotline; or by fax.
- Your Club ID number is required.
- For now, tickets to Disneyland and SeaWorld are eligible for the Club's E-ticket system. More attractions are expected to be added soon.
- Orders will be processed by the Club between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. Monday through Friday (excepting holidays).
- The Club will send your tickets to the email address of your choice.
- You print your tickets any time and from any computer you choose. Bring those tickets with you, and you're done.
- Did your tickets get destroyed, or did you forget them someplace? You can reprint them from the same email.

Newsbrief

DON'T WASTE WATER:

A City Council committee approved Mayor Antonio Villaraigosa's plan to curtail excessive water usage, doubling fines for residents and quadrupling them for businesses. The plan crafted by the DWP seeks to punish residents who water their lawns between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m., car owners who wash their cars without "shut-off devices" on their hoses and restaurants that serve water without being asked.

DWP General Manager H. David Nahai had originally urged the council to approve the plan before the start of summer in June. With full Council approval, the plan could go into effect

As many as 16 DWP employees will be assigned to issue warnings to first-time violators of the rules and fines to those who are caught two or more times. The DWP also operates a hotline for the public to make anonymous water waster complaint calls.

Some of the rules are already on the books but have not been enforced, such as a ban on using hoses to wash down sidewalks and drivewavs.

Such behavior will be permitted only when there is a health and safety issue, or when a device similar to a pressure washer is used to spray the concrete, DWP officials said.

PUBLIC WORKS

A Big Hit

Sanitation Open House at West Los Angeles Yard sets record attendance.

On July 10, more than 1,900 residents attended the Public Works/Sanitation open house in West Los Angeles. Scores of families with children came to take a first-hand look at the variety of sanitation collection trucks on display and to learn about City services. Sanitation trucks served as the main attraction as parent after parent stood in line and told myriad stories about their children waiting to watch the collection trucks come by their homes to lift-up and take away the refuse and recyclables in the black, green and blue bins.

"In our sixth year, with more residents attending year after year, our open house program has succeeded in expanding the City's partnerships with residents to share information, improve recycling practices and environmental protection," said Cynthia M. Ruiz, president of the Board of Public Works. "The key to our future success is to continually encourage children, families and residents to reduce, reuse and recycle as we move toward the goal of zero waste."

Visitors were escorted by Sanitation personnel and youths from the Los Angeles Conservation Corps. Equipment demonstrations and hands-on experience with a variety of collection truck autoloaders and the pulling of truck air horns thrilled children and their parents. Information booths on the City's recycling, refuse and green waste programs were provided along with information on the Hyperion Treatment Plant and new Solid Waste Integrated Resources Plan (SWIRP). Carnival-like games focused on recycling knowledge and the proper sorting of recyclables, green waste and hazardous waste. Small prizes were given to those who tried the recycling games, and refreshments were provided to all.

The West Los Angeles District Yard was the last of six open house events held throughout the City, which included the East and West San Fernando Valley, North Central, South Los Angeles and Harbor yards. This year, Councilmembers Richard Alarcon, Tony Cardenas, Tom LaBonge, Jan C. Perry, Ed P. Reyes, Bill Rosendahl and Dennis P. Zine attended the open houses.

Established in 2003, the annual open house program focuses on recycling to improve and enhance the public's use of its black waste, green yard trimmings and blue recycling bins. For a second year, the program partnered with Million

With public attendance at an all time high, another program record was set with more than 330 City Employees who volunteered their time over the weekends to host the open houses for the public. Med Pay, Explained

There's this line on the quote for your auto insurance: Medical Payments - $5,000. What is that? How important is it? Do you really need it?

Medical payments (Med Pay) are one of the broadest forms of coverage on your auto insurance policy, and yet they are often the most misunderstood, and frequently the least utilized coverage.

Simply put, medical payments coverage insures against medical bills that you, your family members, your passengers, or any pedestrians might incur as a result of an accident involving your car. Med pay also covers any medical bills incurred if you or your family members are injured as pedestrians, even if you are not in or around your own vehicle.

The great thing about med pay is that it pays regardless of fault. Unlike liability coverage, which kicks in only as a result of a lawsuit and you being held legally liable for the claim, Med Pay simply provides coverage if someone is hurt. End of story.

This simple, little $5,000 coverage can do wonders to smoothen people's emotions and hurt feelings, and will reduce the amount of lawsuits in the end. If someone is hurt while riding in your vehicle, it is a good idea for the insurance company to offer to pay for their medical expenses (up to $5,000), as that will often make the person feel cared for and appreciated, and they won't need to pursue any legal action. Too often people sue out of frustration because they feel that their basic needs are not being taken care of.

If you have any type of accident with your vehicle and you have any injuries, whether they're to yourself, your family members, or other passengers, feel free to contact your insurance company about medical payments for these people. If you frequently drive passengers who are not family members, then you definitely should make sure that you have this coverage.

Another of the great things about Med Pay is that it is not restricted solely to automobile accidents. The coverage extends to any physical damage that happens "in, on or around" the vehicle. A common injury for young children is slamming their fingers in the door. This painful experience can be very serious and can result in some significant medical bills. Even if you weren't driving and the kids were just playing in the driveway, your medical payments coverage will respond if someone were injured.

California law does not require you to buy this coverage, but we think it's a good idea. You can buy limits lower than $5,000, but the premium is generally very low, and if you've been to the emergency room lately, you know that you can blow through $5,000 really quickly at the hospital.

To save money, many people will buy excess medical payments coverage. This is a smart idea. If the injured person has medical insurance that would normally cover a broken finger or a cut hand, then they should file their claim with their health insurance company first. The auto insurance medical payments then will cover any "excess" expenses that might arise, including deductibles, uncovered expenses, or individuals who don't have health coverage.)

If you would like to save some money on premiums, and you are fully covered by your health insurance plan, be sure to talk to your agent about excess medical payments coverage. If you don't have health insurance, or you frequently find yourself carrying passengers who don't have health insurance, then you may want to pay the extra dollars and buy full coverage.

Your Med Pay coverage also follows you when you are driving someone else's vehicle, a passenger in their car, or even walking down the street as a pedestrian. Basically, if you purchase Medical Payments coverage, and you are hurt anywhere at anytime "in, on or around" a vehicle, you should talk to your insurance company about submitting a claim.

Med Pay coverage also extends to some of the expenses associated with the accident including lost wages, transportation costs, durable medical goods, and even the cost of a funeral (in the event of death).

A New Fire Station for Palms

Fire Station 43 opens in Palms.

FS 43 Opens.

On Aug. 16, the men and women of the Los Angeles Fire Department warmly welcomed dignitaries, community leaders, fellow employees and neighbors at the public dedication and grand opening of the LAFD's newest Neighborhood Fire Station, FS 43, 3690 Motor Ave. in Palms.

Food, entertainment and tours were offered as part of the festivities.

Housing an Engine Company and Paramedic Rescue Ambulance, and protecting a 4.3-squaremile district centered in Palms, new Fire Station 43 replaces a cramped and inefficient facility on National Boulevard that opened in 1942.

Former Fire Station 43 was designed prior to World War II, and built at the height of the battle to house no more than four male firefighters and two limited-role (now antique) fire apparatus to serve a residential neighborhood.

Constructed for $35,000, the 66-year-old former facility was deemed deficient in meeting modern seismic safety, heating, ventilation, air conditioning, electrical, plumbing, Building Code, ADA and separate gender accommodation issues.

In fact, when built, the first crew assigned to the former station (some of whom joined the LAFD in 1922) boasted of working in one of the few Fire Stations heated by the modern marvel of "air forced across hot water pipes from a 200-gallon storage tank."

LAFD operational and societal advances over nearly seven decades made that station and land inadequate for providing timely and effective response to a community that now includes sizeable commercial and industrial properties as well as large multi-story apartments and filming facilities.

The new energy-efficient 15,250-square-foot Fire Station 43 is built on a one-acre site and is designed to address modern response needs while bringing efficiency to LAFD's workforce and therefore convenience and enhanced service to a vibrant neighborhood.

The ability of Fire Station 43 to now host community functions and training events in the new station's community room will allow Firefighters an even closer and more productive relationship with those they proudly serve.

The energy efficient six-bay facility also features an important "drive through" feature that prevents the need to block traffic on busy Motor Avenue when re-housing Fire Department vehicles.

Fire Station 43 was funded through monies generated by Proposition F.

President Ed Harding reports:

"We had a great time at our picnic Aug. 7. It is always nice to see people that you worked with. We had 150 who showed up and enjoyed barbecue ribs and chicken, put on by Chris & Pitts BBQ. I wish to thank Beth Figuls, Editor of El Pueblo, for taking pictures of our retirees, and for donating six gift certificates for door prizes. Also, thanks to the City Employees Club for sending Robert Larios who took pictures and donated four $50 gas cards for our raffle. We missed John Hawkins, CEO of the City Employees Club, who was out of town.

"I am very sorry that Americo Garza, who put on this picnic, was unable to be there and enjoy all his hard work. But his wife, Ella, who also helps, is in the hospital.

"Neil Ricci, our health director, and his committee have attended and had a table at several of the LACERS health seminars at the Friendship Auditorium. We so enjoyed the Friendship Auditorium that we are going to have our annual corporation meeting and elections there on Thurs., Oct. 23, and not at the Van Nuys/Sherman Oaks Senior Center on Oct. 16. We will have a great lunch, so be sure to call and make reservations so we can order enough meals. We have also arranged to have our April 2009 general membership meeting at the Friendship Auditorium, 3201 Riverside Dr., just east of Los Feliz Boulevard. There's plenty of parking.

"Lastly, I wish to thank LAC-ERS for including us in their health meetings, and for sending Alex Rabrenovich, Sarah Hill and others to our functions and talk to our retirees about health plans and help with our problems.'

"See you Oct. 23 at the Friendship Auditorium."

Legislative Update:

Ken Spiker

"Thanks to legal advice and opinions, Retiree Commissioner Steven Uranga and I will be able again to vote on items that would affect us personally. The San Diego case that prevented us from voting has not yet been heard by the California Supreme Court, Fortunately, during the hiatus we did not miss any votes that would have directly impacted upon retiree benefits. We were able to support and vote for the annual cost of living adjustment.

"The LACERS health care consultant and staff have finished their negotiations with the providers and have recommended continuing with the current providers for the 2009 year, except for the dental provider. All benefits will remain but with an average premium increase of 8.8 percent ($5.8 million). The individual premium increase will depend upon the usual claim/loss history. I am hoping that the annual subsidy vote will help reduce the premium increase for those retirees most affected.

"Separate evaluations were made with the dental and vision providers. VSP Vision provider is recommended to be continued. Moving to another provider would cause too much disruption to current users, and no other service proposed any additional services or price advantage. However, regarding dental coverage, the health care consultant recommends MetLife for 2009 in place of the current Blue Cross claims experience. MetLife provides significant cost savings and offers more service coverage, including implants."

Todos Santos, for Artists

■ Part 2 of Hal's adventures in Cabo San Lucas.

velyn and I were in Cabo San Lucas at Everyn and I were in Carlo with our daughter's in-laws, Effie and Pierre. We spent our first day at a timeshare presentation, and then we were ready to start enjoy-

Each year we attend an update on our resort. They update us on the status of the timeshare and what new offers they have and always try to sell us additional weeks or a more flexible plan. It includes a breakfast and free gift, usually a $50 certificate useable at the resort. It only takes a couple of hours, so it is not big deal.

Without having our grandkids with us on this trip, we had a lot of time to ourselves and spent most mornings around the pools. In the afternoons, we would walk into town and have a drinks and then dinner.

At our first timeshare presentation, we received two $100 restaurant certificates, one to the V.O.S. and one to Las Quesadillas. It seems that both restaurants were in the same location -- the V.O.S was upstairs and the Las Quesadillas was downstairs. They were on the corner of Lazaro Cárdenas and Boulevard Marina in the downtown area

Our first choice was V.O.S, but the upstairs was closed, when we asked about it we were told we could order off the V.O.S menu in Las Quesadillas. The menu featured tapas, and we ordered a number of dishes to share and of course a lot of beer. The food was very good and we really enjoyed the experience. The check totaled about $80, so I told the owner to give the rest of the $100 to the waitress. He told me he could not do it because the certificate could be used only for food, so we ordered dessert, and tipped the waitress ourselves.

On all of our trips to Cabo we have never gone out of the tourist areas, so this time we decided to rent a car and drive to Todos Santos, an artist community about 42 miles north of Cabo.

We rented a car from Advantage Rent-a-Car at our resort, and we could use the oneday-free car rental that I received at the resort timeshare presentation.

All of us have heard the horror stories about driving in Mexico, but I found it not a problem. The roads were well maintained and easy to follow. All of the drivers followed the rules of the road and, except for staying out the way of the large trucks, it was a very easy and picturesque drive to Todos Santos.

Todos Santos is on the Tropic of Cancer on the Pacific side of Baja. The town is on a mesa to the west of the Sierra de La Laguna mountain range. It has become a haven for artists and craftsmen who enjoy a very mild climate and healthy lifestyle. It has a large number of art galleries, boutiques and histor-

We parked on the main street close to the Hotel California. It is rumored that this Hotel California is the hotel that the Eagles sang about in their 1977 single. The rumor is not true, but was started by the owner of the hotel to attract tourists, which he seemed to accomplish. And the falsity of the rumor doesn't stop the picture taking or the sale of T-shirts.

We walked around the town for a few hours visiting the galleries. Many of the streets were still paved with dirt and the sidewalks are not ADA-compliant. If you are interested in a nice day trip from Cabo, this is the place.

Picking a restaurant for lunch was not easy, as there was a large number to choose from. We picked the Tequila's Sunrise Bar and Grill (across the street from the Hotel California), which had a very good Mexican menu. The food was really good, and one of the highlights of the restaurant is that the walls are covered with the names of people who have dined there. Not one to pass up an opportunity to write on a wall, I managed to inscribe our four names, which should last until the next paint job.

The drive back to Cabo was just as easy, and my only problem was finding a gas station to fill up before returning the car. The first one I saw was on the wrong side of the highway, and then I missed the one in the middle of downtown Cabo. So I ending up at the Marina, but its station was only for boats. In the end I made my way back to the downtown station and got the full-service treatment. You can't pump your own gas in Mexico, and they don't take credit cards. We drove back to the resort and turned in the car and were very pleased with our little adventure.

A church in Todos Santos.

www.cityemployeesclub.com September 2008

That evening, we used our remaining $100 restaurant certificate for dinner at the Las Quesadillas. I found the food and drink to be good and we had a nice time.

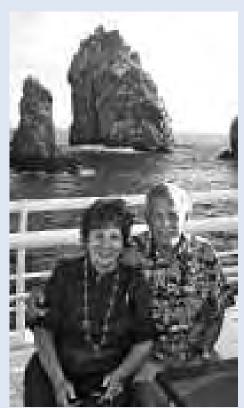

One of the reasons we attended the timeshare presentation was to get the dinner cruise aboard the Caborey. It is advertised as a sunset dinner-cruise with entertainment. We didn't know what to expect, but we were willing to take a chance.

The ship docked across the street from our resort, so we just walked over to the dock. The dock was the same one used by the cruise ships, so we had to go through security before we could board the ship.

because it wasn't spring break, and I was correct. There was a line at the Mexicana check-in counter, so the porter who had our bags dropped our bags close to the counter so we would not have to carry them while in line. Our flight was not checking in yet, but he said something to the person in charge and next thing I know they opened the check-in line for our flight and the line started behind us. After I tipped the porter, the security guard who had moved us to the front came over and I gave him a nice tip, also. It was nice not to have to wait in line. Going through security was no problem; our plane was almost on time, and we arrived back in Los Angeles on schedule.

We all enjoyed our time in Cabo without the grandkids and without spring break, but that will change next year as our week falls once again during spring break. We are already planning to rent a van and drive to La Paz for the day. But you'll have to wait to next year to hear about that.

Hal and Evelyn aboard the Caborey.

On the wall at the Tequila's Sunrise – at least until the next paint job.

Aboard the Caborey.

Our first stop was the dining room, where we were shown our table. It turns out that it was a sit-down dinner with table service. We then found a table on the outside deck and had a cocktail from the open bar. There was a rock band playing and everyone was having a good time. The ship left the dock and sailed around the harbor for about an hour, stopping at the rock formations at the tip of the Baja Peninsula for picture taking.

The dinner service was very good, and it was the best food we had had on this type of cruise. After dinner there were a couple of dance teams that performed, and they were very well received. The ship docked after the performance and we walked back to our resort feeling that it was a worthwhile cruise.

On our last night in Cabo, we decided to have dinner at the Galeon, which, while not part of the resort complex, was highly recommended by the Resort and just a short walk. It was an Italian restaurant with a great view of the marina. I found the food to be fair and nothing special. The highlight of the dinner was the Mexican coffee, which came with a great performance for which they turn off all of the lights so you can see this fiery coffee being poured from about three feet into you

On our last morning, we always go for breakfast at the Office on Medano Beach, on the other side of the Marina. Tables were on the sand, and it was a great experience with great food.

Our car and driver picked us up at the resort for the trip to the airport. Last year, which was during spring break, the lines were so long you waited almost an hour to get though security and almost as long to get your boarding pass. After that, the plane was four hours late. It wasn't a pleasant experience. This year I didn't expect the same problems

Fountains at the Harbor

Port unveils new Gateway Plaza water fountains that feature light and music, too.

On July 25, the Port of Los Angeles unveiled several lively water features as part of the Gateway Plaza that welcomes visitors to the Los Angeles Waterfront in San Pedro. The fountains were designed and developed by Los Angelesbased WET Design, which created the spectacular Fountains of Bellagio in Las Vegas.

"The Port is pleased to officially unveil this exciting and inviting new water feature, which links the Cruise Ship Promenade and Harbor Boulevard Parkway Promenade," said Port of Los Angeles Executive Director Geraldine Knatz, Ph.D. "The spectacular new fountains are a wonderful public attraction that will bring local residents and out-of-area visitors alike to our waterfront for a fun and entertaining experience that people of all ages will enjoy."

The "Fanfare" fountain at the Gateway Plaza and a separate interactive children's fountain located on the Harbor Boulevard Parkway Promenade at Second Street are part of a series of projects completed, under construction or proposed – all collectively shaping an exciting new L.A. Waterfront for the harbor communities and worldwide visitors.

Fanfare at Gateway Plaza, at the bottom of the Harbor Boulevard exit of I-110 Freeway, features 58 choreographed water jets that build a dramatic waterfront entryway for visitors, whether they arrive by ship, by foot, or by the Port's popular Waterfront Red Car line that links the Cruise Center to Ports O' Call. An arc of Canary Island palm trees punctuates the length of the feature, while a fountain perimeter of wooden benches provides a place to relax and an intimate view of the liquid stage.

For an even closer look, a sunken pathway cuts directly through the main fountain, allowing visitors to be surrounded by vertical and fanshaped jets that move to an eclectic mix of classical, popular and movie soundtrack music. "O Sole Mio" (Luciano Pavarotti), "O Marijana" (John Duda Tamburitzas), and "Fanfare for the Common Man" (Aaron Copeland/Leonard Bernstein/New York Philharmonic) are just a few of the musical standards choreographed to the dancing fountains.

A short walk south on the Harbor Boulevard Parkway Promenade is the interactive fountain at Second Street and Harbor Boulevard. At this location, there is no boundary between people and water, and visitors can get as wet as they like in jets that leap playfully out of the pavement. More than 20 years ago, the fountain builders, Los Angeles-based WET Design, first introduced the then-revolutionary concept of a fountain emitting directly from the ground, not a pool.

"As not many people from this small East Los Angeles town [El Sereno] graduate from high school, let alone attend a university, I am encouraged and challenged every day to succeed," she wrote. "I will be my own motivator, benefit from the excellent resources available and dedicate myself to performing my best in any course I take."

She's the daughter of Camelia Martinez, Public Works.

FINANCE

Finance Service Awards

Finance hands out its sixth annual Outstanding Service Awards.

On June 5, the Office of Finance celebrated the top 1.6 percent of its workforce at the department's sixth annual Outstanding Service Awards, held at the Kyoto Grand Hotel and Gardens. Antoinette Christovale, Director of Finance, presented awards to six employees for their exceptional performance and dedication to the job. "It gives me great pleasure to recognize some of our most dedicated, talented and innovative staff who have contributed to the Office of Finance and to the City of Los Angeles."

Christovale and Assistant Director Pamela Mooney closed the proceedings by praising all honorees for their exceptional professionalism and contributions to the office. They also took the opportunity to thank all Office of Finance staff for their service and dedication throughout the year.

Office of Finance was created in 2000 as a result of Charter reform efforts, and collects more than $2 billion in revenue annually from various sources, including taxes, licenses, fees and permits. This revenue pays for essential municipal services to City residents and businesses.

Congratulations to the winners, and thanks to Andrea Angeles for her assistance in producing this story.

The following six honorees were recognized for their service during fiscal year 2007 – 2008 at levels above and beyond the normal duties of their jobs:

Administration Division ALICIA VEGA

Tax Compliance Officer III

Alicia was recognized for her dedication to duty and her exemplary work ethic. Alicia began her City career in 1989 as a Clerk Typist with Pensions. She began working in the City Clerk's Office as a Senior Clerk Typist in 1990. She was promoted to a Tax and Permit Field Representative in 1995, became a Management Analyst in 1997 and has been a TCO III since 2003. For essentially 18 years she has worked for the Office of Finance. Some of her assignments over the years have been the Hollywood Public Counter and Hollywood Field Office. Alicia has been a Tax Compliance Officer III for 8 years and is currently supervising the Tax Code Analysis unit. Alicia is a very reliable employee. When new responsibilities were transferred to the unit such as the CPRA coordination and temporary assumption of the Taxpayer Advocate duties, she immediately jumped in and assumed a leadership role in administration of the programs. She organized meetings for information gathering and established data and document tracking processes to comply with legal, as well as internal office timelines. Additionally, she assisted in preparation of the Rate Reduction and Technical Changes to the Los Angeles Municipal Code Reports. Finally, she is the "go-to" person relative to the many technical aspects of Ordinance application and historical perspectives of relating to the business tax reform program. She is a wealth of knowledge and maintains a positive approach to all assignments.

Citywide Collections Unit KAREN DEAN

Finance Collection Investigator III

Karen was recognized for her dedication to duty. Karen began her City career in 1980 as a Legal Secretary I with the City Attorney's Office. She has been with the Citywide Collections Unit, which was then known as the Claims and Collection Unit, since 1984. She served as the training coordinator for new investigators and was also the coordinator for the private collection agency as well as the in-house training coordinator for the unit's collection system. Karen's first assignment with the Citywide Collections Unit was as a Legal Assistant, handling workers' compensation subrogation and City vehicle damage claims. She was then promoted to Investigator II, where she handled a significant caseload, including tax, statutory fees and permits, property damage and the often challenging and sensitive City employee salary overpayments. Karen has repeatedly demonstrated dedication to duty, an outstanding work ethic and consistently showed initiative in assuming responsibilities. Approximately two years ago, Karen was promoted to a supervisory role as an Investigator III. In addition to her designated supervisory responsibilities, she continues to maintain oversight and assumes a leadership role over the private agency referral program. With expiration of the original citywide collection contracts, she played an integral part in the setup, reporting and account referral processes with one of the Office's new vendors, Caine and Weiner. And, as a result of her added efforts, suggestions, and tenacity, the Office is implementing more efficient referral and agency monitoring routines.

LATAX Systems Division MARY MAHER

Tax Compliance Officer III

Mary was recognized for her outstanding contributions and accomplishments. Mary began her City career in 1970 as a Tax and Field Representative. She became a Senior Tax and Field Representative in 1978 supervising the Van Nuys Branch Office until 1984, when she decided to stay at home with her two young children. She returned to the City in 1999 as a Management Assistant with the Tax and Permit Division. She supervised the TAPS Unit during the transition to LATAX and has been with the LATAX Systems Division since 2004. Mary is a key individual in the LATAX group who is solely responsible for a great many things to ensure the day-to-day operation of the system for this department. She coordinated all correspondence items between LATAX and our vendors that print and mail them along with monitoring the results of items generated by LATAX to ensure they are correct in quantity and content and monitoring the processing results and shipments by the vendor to ensure they did get mailed. Approximately 1.5 million correspondence items were generated and mailed by the system over the past year. Mary responded to requests for information and statistics about our tax and permit base and worked with the Office of the City Attorney as to the legal requirements of providing that information. Mary has had to complete these duties and more largely without assistance from other staff, and her dedication and professionalism in performing all these very important duties have greatly benefited Finance in meeting its goals and objectives.

Tax and Permit Division

FLORSERFINA AVILA

Tax Auditor II

Florserfina was recognized for her outstanding dedication to her work. Florserfina began her City service in 1999 as a Tax Auditor with Tax and Permit Division, and after a year, she was promoted to Tax Auditor II. Florserfina has consistently been the highest producer in the Office Audit Section, in terms of number of audits completed and revenue generated. Florserfina was assigned to initiate a pilot project that established an Office Audit presence at the Van Nuys location. She was able to implement a procedure to coordinate and obtain the cooperation and support of other division employees at Van Nuys. Stationed at Van Nuys, Florserfina worked diligently to make the pilot project a success. As testament to her efforts, Florserfina was able to exceed her audit goals for three consecutive years. This performance was instrumental in the decision to move the pilot project forward as a significant component of the Office Audit unit. Through Florserfina's efforts, the Van Nuys' Office Audit unit has provided outstanding customer service to taxpayers located in the Valley. Local businesses selected for a desk audit are able to eliminate travel to the Wilshire office, which saves a significant amount of hours for operation of their business.

Revenue Management Division

FLOYD NEAL

Tax Compliance Aide

Floyd was recognized for his exceptional service to the public. Floyd began his City service in 1995 as a Clerk Typist with the City Clerk's Office. He was promoted to Senior Clerk Typist in 1997 and was again promoted to Tax Compliance Aide in 2005. Floyd consistently demonstrates initiative and assumes responsibilities above and beyond his job duties and is often relied on for this expertise with classifying difficult accounts and training new employees. He is very ambitious and frequently seeks opportunities to assist where needed, especially when the public counters are significantly impacted and during personnel shortages. Prior to filling the Principal Clerk vacancy, Floyd graciously assumed the responsibilities, on a temporary basis, assisting with the Brinks deposits, public counter coverage and providing backup coverage for the numerous Satellite Offices. Additionally Floyd translates when taxpayers are unable to resolve accounts; he willingly assists making sure that each taxpayer receives excellent customer service. He also assumed the responsibility of picking up the deposit for the seasonal office located at CD-8 Constitute Office. Floyd is hardworking, committed, and very reliable. He takes great pride in his work and does everything within his power to assure that the missions of the department are accomplished.

Revenue Management Division

DEBORAH SLAUGHTER

Principal Clerk

Deborah was recognized for her dedication to duty, her outstanding accomplishments, and her exceptional leadership that earned the designation as the Office of Finance Employee of the Year for 2008. Deborah began her City service in 1981 as a Clerk Typist with Building and Safety. She came to the Office of Finance in 2003 as a Principal Clerk. In Finance, Deborah has worked for the Accounts Receivable section and the Special Desks section. Deborah has consistently shown initiative, assumed responsibilities and exercised persistence in the timely resolution of problems. As the Special Desks Unit supervisor, Deborah prepared comprehensive written desk duties, which included the development of procedures for Oil Well Fire Permits. This required coordination with the Fire Department, the City Attorney, LATAX staff and her own staff. Further, she encouraged her staff to develop a tracking mechanism to efficiently and effectively monitor the inventory of the unit's work items. Deborah consistently performs her duties in an exemplary manner and maintains meticulous work habits. She often is required to provide immediate research and status reports to Executive Management for inquiries referred by elected officials and never falters when tasked to do so. She demonstrates admirable qualities, her strong work ethic, dedication to the job and integrity make her a good role model to all City employees. Her contributions to the City continually surpass her supervisors' expectations, which have consistently contributed to an increase in productivity and employee morale.

Olympic Fanfare

Daughter of Club Member travels to China to play for the Olympics.

Angela Olinger, a clarinetist from Newhall who attends Fresno State, traveled to Beijing on a 20-day trip as one of the roughly 2,000 people selected to be part of the Beijing Olympic Orchestra.

She's the daughter of John Olinger, Principal Construction Inspector, Public Works/Contract Administration.

"I'm looking forward to playing there and seeing the type of audience and their reaction to the music," she was quoted as saying, before she left.

Olinger said the orchestra, which includes members from all over the world, was to perform for the Chinese people at various venues, including Tiananmen Square and the Great Wall of China.

She raised $4,500 to fund her trip.

"Being able to come together with a group of people and share music is priceless," she said. "It's another example of how music can allow you to travel and gives you a world of opportunities."

Congratulations go to Angela and her dad, John.

Fall Brings New Shows

Now that summer is almost over, so are the reruns on broadcast channels. LA CityView 35 also will premier some great new shows that we hope you will tune in and watch. The list is long, so let's get to it. And on behalf of all of us here at LA CityView 35, we hope that you have had a fantastic summer.

Programming Highlights for September

Aging in LA

Hearing loss frequently goes unnoticed, even though it is the most common sensory impairment in adults over the age of 65. Estimates of those with hearing impairment are expected to double the number that is currently reported. These issues are explored in "Have You Heard," an episode of Aging in LA. Airs: Tuesday, Sept. 9 at 1:30 p.m.

At Your Library: Life-Long Success

The Los Angeles Public Library has a wide variety of new and ongoing educational programs, workshops, special events and informational seminars for library patrons of all ages: from infants and toddlers, to older children, teens, adults and senior citizens. No matter what stage of life you're at, the library has a program for you – and it's free!

On this episode of At Your Library, host Franklin Neely visits with the library's ESL (English as a Second Language) programs, learns how visitors got their "Kicks on Route 66" during a lunchtime program, and discovers how residents can find library programs to pursue their dreams of United States citizenship.

Airs: Mondays, Sept. 22 and 29 at 11 a.m. and 10 p.m.

Faces of L.A.

Faces of L.A. is LA CityView 35's new series of short segments that takes an indepth look at the work and contributions of the fine individuals who are making a difference in the lives of the people of Los Angeles. From organizations, such as For Grace, which helps women in pain, and the St. Vincent de Paul Society, assisting the poor; to individuals, such as a decathlon coach at Crenshaw High, an LAPD Captain who is the first Hispanic female ever to hold that post; a "Project Runway" finalist; and an executive at Paramount Studios, "Faces of L.A." gives them the opportunity to tell their story.

Airs: Throughout the day.

The Home Shopping Petwork

On the latest episode of The Home Shopping Petwork, host Andrew Tarr talks to dog and cat experts at LA Animal Services to get the lowdown on what you need to know if you think you might be a dog person or a cat person.

Plus, LA Animal Services pet lovers Miki Shaler and Cori Mitchell bring along a whole new batch of pets who are shopping for a home.

Airs: Monday through Friday at 5 pm.

Inside the LAPD

Inside the LAPD takes us back to the wild, wild West with the LAPD Mounted Unit. Participate in a training demonstration with host Mary Grady, as she jumps in the saddle to learn how to maneuver a horse over urban terrain. Then we're off to Central Area to catch the bad guys.

Airs: Thursdays, Sept. 4 and 18 at 2 and 10 p.m.

L.A. Roundtable

LA Cityview 35's award-winning public affairs discussion program, L.A. Roundtable, offers new programs about some of the major issues facing us in Los Angeles and throughout Southern California.

The State Energy and Transportation Ballot Propositions: A very important general election is coming up on Tuesday, Nov. 4. Not only will we be voting for president, but there are also at least 12 critical propositions on our state ballot and a number of local issues as well. This episode explores some of those ballot propositions.

The Newspaper Columnists Angelenos Love to Read: Like many other print journalists, columnists seem to be an endangered species. How do they find the interesting people and stories they write about, and will they survive the fast-moving transition to more and more online news?

Los Angeles County Supervisors: Kings and Queens of Their Own Realms? Now that some County residents are about to choose a County Supervisor in the first strongly contested election in 16 years, is it fair to say that the five County supervisors are "the most powerful people nobody knows?"

Airs: Mondays at 1:30 and 8 p.m.; Fridays at 1:30 and 9:30 p.m.

My Last Dying Breath

The long history of the LAFD includes many tragedies. The documentary My Last Dying Breath chronicles the experiences of those fortunate to narrowly escape the last call. These stories, told by the actual LA City firefighters, are true accounts of their life-altering experiences, presented candidly and in their own words.

Airs: Mondays, Sept. 22 and 29 at 12:30 and 9:30 p.m.

Second Chances: Union Made

Second Chances: Union Made tells the story of how job training programs have enabled convicted criminals to turn their lives around by learning construction jobs and contributing to the development of some of Los Angeles' largest building projects.

Airs: Wed., Sept. 3 and 17 at 2 p.m.; and Sat., Sept. 13 at 4:30 p.m.

"I took the family for a week's vacation at the Rec and Parks-owned and -operated Camp High Sierra in Mammoth Lakes. Built in the mid'20s, the camp is about two miles from the center of town and features campsites, 10 cabins, hot showers and a charming old lodge with games and activities for the kids. We stayed in one of the rustic cabins and spent one week fishing, hiking, roasting marshmallows, riding the Mammoth Mountain gondola and horseback riding." The Life insurance:

How Much Is Enough?

■ Many Americans with life insurance are so under-insured that if they die, their families won't be able to maintain their standard of living.

Loss of the deceased's income can have a devastating financial impact on a family. Assets may have to be sold to cover heavy medical expenses, final expenses and living costs. Recent reports from LIMRA International found that:

- Many married couples fail to plan for the eventual death of one spouse before the other, which can have serious consequences, especially when the survivor is the wife (Public Misperceptions About Retirement Security Closing the Gaps, 2007).
- 22% of families with dependent children admit they would have immediate trouble meeting everyday expenses and another 26% could only cover expenses for a few months if a primary wage earner died (Facts About Life, 2006).
- 45% of widows and 37% of widowers say their spouse was inadequately insured. (LIMRA Web site, 3/2007).

The stark fact is that many Americans – nearly one-third, according to the 2006 LIMRA report – still don't have life insurance, and many of those who do have coverage often don't have enough to really make a difference:

 On average, U.S. households report they should own enough life insurance to replace six years of income, but only owned enough to replace their income for 2.8 years.

Getting the coverage you need

When you consider these facts, you may find that your family would not be adequately protected should they lose you and your income.

"Typically, term life insurance offers you the most life insurance protection for your money," explained Robert Larios, the Director of Marketing and Communications for The City Employees Club of Los Angeles. "It becomes even more affordable when you can purchase it at an attractive group rate. If there is a gap between the amount of life insurance you have and the amount your family would need, term life insurance may be the most economical way to close it."

What to look for in a plan

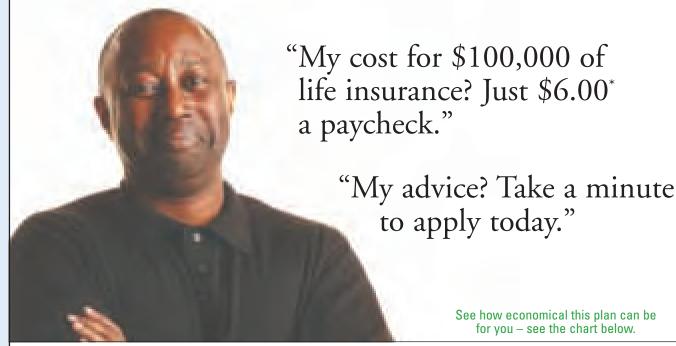

When evaluating term life insurance plans, here are some things to consider:

- Can you get the amount you need to adequately protect your family?
- Can you also get coverage for your spouse?
- Will the premiums for the amount of coverage you want be easy for you to handle?
- Is it easy and convenient to apply for?
- Is the underwriting company highly rated and financially strong?

HARBOR SECURITY:

The Port of Los Angeles has been awarded $10.06 million out of $40 million in fiscal year 2007 California Proposition 1B grant funds for four security projects: a multi-agency maritime facility; a multi-vehicle inspection facility; a law enforcement tracking system; and maritime law enforcement officer training. The reimbursement grant, which does not require cost share funding, was officially accepted by the Los Angeles Board of Harbor Commissioners at its meeting in August.

State of California voters approved the Highway Safety, Traffic Reduction, Air Quality and Port Security Bond Act, Proposition 1B, in November 2006. The Proposition directs that $100,000,000 of the bond funds be made available upon appropriation of legislature for eligible port and maritime security projects. In January 2008, the Port of Los Angeles applied for grants funds for four security projects which were reviewed by a Peer Review Panel appointed by the California Governor's Office of Homeland Security. The Port's projects were approved in May 2008 and the recent Board action officially accepts the grant, which must be used for the approved projects by March 31, 2010.

The projects funded under this Proposition 1B grant are:

Multi-Agency Maritime Facility – located at the Port Police Wilmington Substation on Water Street, the project upgrades the existing building to support multi-agency operations as well as add modular units to support boat crews of the different agencies. Also included in the project is installation of floating docks, gangways and piers suitable to mooring the types of boats being used by law enforcement agencies in the Port. Also included are electrical and fresh water hook-ups. Total projected cost is $3.9 million.

Cruise Center Vehicle Inspection Facility – involves improvements to the site where the high-powered scanner unit can be operated and improvements to a secondary inspection area to be utilized by other agencies performing security operations at the Port. Total projected cost is $2.2 million.

Law Enforcement Resource Tracking System – includes procurement and installation of a state of the art resource tracking system for vehicles and vessels operating with the land and water areas of the Port. The project includes installing tracking system transponders on all of the vehicles and vessels of participating agencies. It also includes installing readout capabilities at all locations within the Port that may be used, as well as an incident command centers within the Port. Total projected cost is $3.3 million.

Maritime Law Enforcement Officer Training – allows the Port, in conjunction with the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department, to develop a curriculum to provide additional training to the law enforcement agencies that currently operate within the Port. Instructors will be California Peace Officer Standards and Training (POST) certified and will cover maritime law enforcement topics. Total projected cost is $447,960.

The grant will be administered by the Port's Homeland Security Division.

Make It Margherita

DIRECTIONS:

Have all our tools and ingredients prepared on a clean cutting board and kitchen surface. Wash, pat-dry and dice the basil, then set aside.

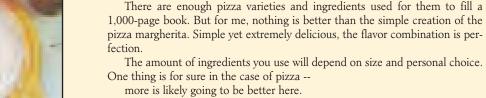

Begin kneading and flattening the dough so that it takes shape as a circle. Don't worry if it is not a perfect circle. I suggest a thin layer of dough so that the pizza becomes a thin-crust pizza.

Take flour and spread it over a clean cutting board. This helps keep the pizza dough from sticking to the surface as the dough is Apply olive oil or nonstick cooking spray to the surface to a baking pan or pizza pan that has been wrapped in aluminum foil.

As the story goes, around 1870, Chef Rafaelle Esposito was ordered by Queen Margherita of Savoia, Italy (Margaret of Savoy) to bake a variety of pizzas. In honor of the Queen and the colors of the Italian flag, Rafaelle made a pizza topped with tomatoes, mozzarella cheese and fresh basil. The queen loved the new pizza, and the word quickly got out about the pizza. It was named

Serves 2 to 4

INGREDIENTS:

- Pizza dough (amount is your preference)
- Pizza sauce, 16 ounces
- Pepper, to taste
- Mozzarella cheese, 1 pound
- Basil, 1/2 cup
- Extra virgin olive oil, 2 tablespoons (to prepare the pan and to drizzle on pizza; optional)
- Flour, 1/4 cup

Cooking Tidbit: Feel free to add as much or little of the main ingredients. Obviously, more dough means a larger pizza, with the need for more pizza sauce, cheese, basil and cooking time. You are free to make homemade dough and tomato sauce as well if you have the time, and believe me it is well worth the extra time.

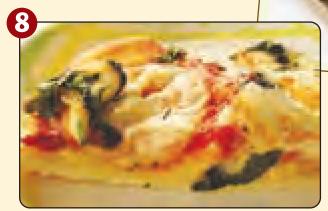

Place the dough on the baking pan. Add the pizza sauce over the dough and spread

Place in the oven and bake at 450 F degrees for about 20 minutes or until the crust is golden brown and the cheese has

Add the mozzarella cheese, basil and freshly cracked pepper over the sauce. Lastly, add a few drops of extra virgin olive oil.

Cut a slice or two and serve.

A Cook's Dictionary

Pizza:

Made popular in the Unites States by soldiers who brought the idea back from Italy at the end of World War II, pizza is thought to have evolved from early Egyptian flat bread. Literally translated, the word means "pie," but it has come to represent a round savory tart made with a crisp yeast dough vered with tomato sauce, mozzarella cheese and other ingredients such as peppers, onions, Italian sausage, mushrooms, anchovies and pepperoni. Variations such as deep-dish pizza, with its breadlike crust, have been popular over the years. Many menus now feature pizzas with just tomato sauce and mozzarella cheese. They're topped instead with ingredients such as sun-dried tomatoes, duck sausage, fresh basil, smoked salmon, goat cheese or wild mushrooms.

Be Prepared

Emergency Preparedness Fairs scheduled for September.

The Great Southern California ShakeOut: Are You Prepared?" is the title of a series of three emergency preparedness fairs, scheduled this month by Emergency Preparedness.

The fairs, the 17th annual, are intended to educate City residents on the importance of being prepared for earthquakes and other disasters, and to provide preparedness information and tips.

Fairs are scheduled on the following Saturdays, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.:

- Sept. 13, Page Museum at the La Brea Tar Pits, 5801 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles;
- Sept. 20, Ken Malloy Harbor Regional Park, 25820 Vermont Ave., Harbor City; and
- Sept. 27, Panorama Mall, 8401 Van Nuys Blvd., Panorama City.

The fairs feature free admission, free giveaways, live safety demonstrations, disaster preparedness exhibits, a children's preparedness pavilion, and interactive programming for children ages 3-12.

Expected to be in attendance are representatives from the LAFD, the LAPD, Public Works, the DWP, Transportation, Rec and Parks, Building and Safety, Department on Disability, Community Redevelopment Agency, the American Red Cross and others who play significant roles during and after earthquakes, fires, floods, landslides and other natural or man-made disasters.

For more information: www.lacity.org/emd or call (213) 978-2222.

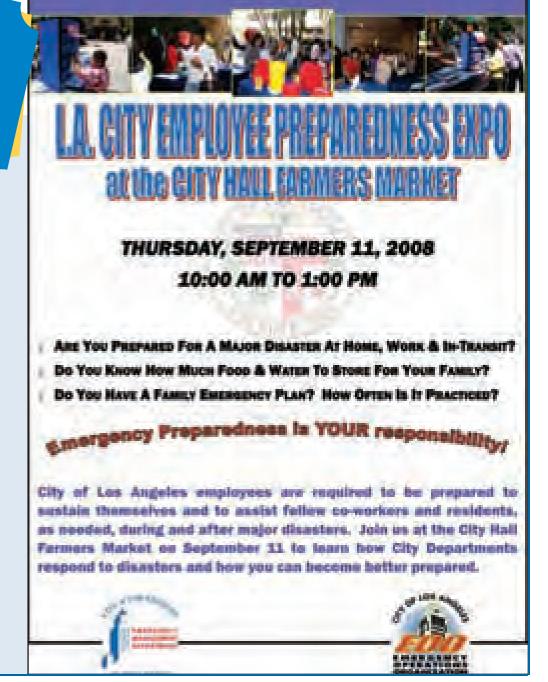

A Fair for Employees, Too

This fall's emergency preparedness fairs are not just for regular citizens – there's one for City Employees, too.

From 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Sept. 11, Emergency Preparedness will offer a preparedness fair just for City Employees. The fair will be held at the City Hall Farmer's Market.

City employees are required to be prepared to help citizens get through an emergency. Are you ready to help? That's what the City Employee Preparedness Expo is all about.

I do not use drugs or alcohol, yet the only place to spend the night is in the mission, where most of the homeless are drug addicts and alcoholics. The mission is demoralizing and an embarrassment to me; if I were mayor, I would provide more respectable housing options, and I would try to funnel more money to the cause."

The Club gave Rico a "Club Earth-Friendly Bag," filled with three pairs of socks, water, snacks, an L.A. City shirt, $20 and a $25 McDonald's gift card. He was very appreciative.

HARBOR SUPPORTS BANNING:

The Los Angeles Board of Harbor Commissioners unanimously approved spending up to $900,000 on a transportation exhibit at the Banning Museum in Wilmington. The exhibit, being coordinated by The Friends of Banning Park Corporation, spotlights the transportation history of the Los Angeles Harbor between 1850 and 1915 and will be separated by eras: Spanish and Mexican Era, American Era, Railroad and Port Development, and Transportation Legacy of the Los Angeles Harbor. The exhibit will be housed in 3,000 square feet and is expected to take two years to complete.

"It is important for the residents and visitors to this area to understand the history that brought us to the point of being a critical transportation and commerce hub for the nation," said Los Angeles Harbor Commission President S. David Freeman. "The Transportation Exhibit Project at the Banning Museum is an important addition to the area, and we are pleased to be able to assist with its financing through the existing community mitigation funds - this is what the fund was intended to support."

Funding for this project comes from the Port's Community Aesthetic Mitigation Program, created as part of the China Shipping lawsuit settlement in 2003. A total of $13.3 million was set aside for projects in the Wilmington community. It is anticipated that $3.1 million will be expended on the already-approved Wilmington Youth Sailing Center and $2.7 million has been approved for an aquatics center at the Wilmington YMCA.

"The Board of the Friends of Banning joins me in expressing deep appreciation to the Harbor Commission, our founder Nancy Banning Call, our Museum Director Michael Sanborn, and a wonderful cross-section of individuals who helped us obtain this award," remarked Hank Hilty, President of the Friends. Hilty acknowledged the broad interest and excitement this project is generating as they continue to move closer to their Campaign fund raising goals. Additionally he mentioned that the Museum anticipates this exhibition will attract Museum visitors not only from this region but from around the country and international guests who are vis-

A call for proposals in Wilmington went out to the community in 2007. Types of proposed conceptual projects being sought were those providing a nexus between the proposed project and the impact of Port operations. Viable concepts included: open space and parks; landscaping and beautification; and educational, arts or athletic facilities. Received proposals were reviewed by the Port Community Advisory Committee and then sent to the California State Lands Commission for evaluation of consistency with the Tidelands Trust and the Public Trust Doctrine. The project then came before the Board of Harbor Commissioners for approval. A similar fund and process is in place for projects in the San Pedro area.

MOVIE REVIEWS

The Wackness Rated R My Score: 4 (out of 5)

It's 1994 in this coming-of-age story as New York City high school senior Luke Shapiro (Josh Peck) deals drugs while everything and everyone in his life is spinning out of control.

I recommend this funny, sad, weird and ultimately life-affirming tale, which comes with a warning: it contains drugs, sex, rock-and-roll (of course), cursing and smoking! Ben Kingsley (remember Gandhi?) is Luke's psychologist who trades therapy for drugs.

It's wackness, but with plenty of heart.

Wall-E

Rated G

My Score: 5 (out of 5)

Wall-E is a cute little robot creature (like only Pixar can create!) who continues his job of cleaning up trash on Earth (and collecting little knickknacks he finds interesting) long past when humans have abandoned the planet. Approximately the first hour of Wall-E (which stands for Waste Allocation Load Lifter Earth-Class) has no dialogue, but you have no problem understanding what he is communicating through his very expressive robotic face. He finally meets his romantic interest Eve (what else?), who, upon finding a bit of green plant life, returns to report to the earthlings far, far away that Earth is once again inhabitable.

The animation and story are extremely entertaining! Once again, Pixar has you falling in love with a non-human species.

- Jean Sarfaty, LAPD

Hancock Rated PG-13 My Score: 4 (out of 5)

Will Smith does a fine acting job in this movie as a "superhero with a drinking problem." When he realizes that he's not quite the hero when it comes to public relations (despite that fact that he saves countless lives, however sloppily), a PR man offers his services to improve his image.

The special effects are impressive, the story line intriguing, and a few twists to the story keep your attention. Somehow I found that I enjoyed Iron Man a bit more, but this movie is definitely worth going to the big screen to see!

- Jean Sarfaty, LAPD

Mamma Mia

Mamma Mia Rated PG-13

My Score: 4 (out of 5)

Call me crazy, but if you were casting for a musical, wouldn't you ask the actor if he can sing? I love Pierce Brosnan; he is easy on the eyes, but he is hard on the ears! But besides that, the entire cast was outstanding especially Meryl Streep. Wow!

I have seen the live show six times and wore out the CD, so I was a little disappointed that some numbers were cut or shortened. Even though the movie could have been better, I still loved it! So much so, I went the next day to see it again.

- Gail Seltzer, DWP

Mamma Mia

My Score: 3 (out of 5)

This movie was based on the music of ABBA and the stage musical, Mamma Mia. The story takes place on a beautiful island in Greece and is about a young girl about to get married but wants to invite her dad. The problem is, she doesn't know who her dad is. After looking in her mom's diary, she has a choice of three men.

The movie is a little corny at times, but if you like the music of ABBA and you like to laugh, it's worth seeing. Be sure to stay for the credit sequence, which features more comedy.

- Stephanie Lazarus, LAPD

Journey to the Center of the Earth Rated PG

My Score: 3 (out of 5)

Although sometimes it gives me a headache, I love 3D! I feel 3D is one of the most amazing special effects there is. How cool is it to have something seem like it is coming out of the screen an inch from your face?

The story and action were pretty good, but they could have added more 3D effects to make it much better. Brendan Fraser is always enjoyable and has good comedic timing. Josh Hutcherson and Anita Briem also turn in fine performances. The movie is kid-friendly and good for adults, too.

- Gail Seltzer, DWP

Wanted Rated R

My Score: 3 (out of 5)

Violent, violent, violent! This movie is a good overall story with a lot of great action scenes. James McAvoy goes from a "loser office worker" to a highly skilled assassin with the help of Angelina Jolie, Morgan Freeman and Although this isn't the type of movie I normally go to, people who enjoy violence and blood will really enjoy this one. The story was good, but I thought the "twist" with the father had holes and didn't really make complete sense.

- Gail Seltzer, DWP

The Dark Knight Rated R

My Score: 4 (out of 5)

Batman again battles the Joker, his archnemesis. But this time, Christian Bale's Batman fights Heath Ledger as the Joker in this darkestyet installment of the comic book-superheroturned-cinema-star series. Ledger is brilliant and disturbing, funny and horrifying, in his last and perhaps most memorable role.

Many will see this film because of Ledger's death, but I recommend the movie for its thrills and underlying message of good trying to overcome evil. Besides being visually brilliant, there is an appropriately haunting music score by James Newton Howard and Hans Zimmer.

- Lou Loomis, Rec and Parks

DVD Reviews

Saw III (2006)

Rated R

My Score: 3 (out of 5)

I have seen all three Saw movies. This one was very bloody and gory. The beginning of the movie showed flashbacks from the previous two Saw movies.

Amanda (Shawnee Smith) is shown in flashback, working with the Jigsaw Killer (Tobin Bell) and his game of killing people. If you have seen the other movies, this one is the same. Jigsaw plays a game that involves Amanda, and there are twists and turns.

If you like the Saw movies, rent it. If you don't like blood and gore, don't rent it. (Another sequel, Saw IV, came out in 2007.)

BOOK Reviews

Moscow Rules

Daniel Silva; Putnam; Spy Fiction, 448 pages My Score: 5 (out of 5)

In this most recent Daniel Silva espionage thriller, ex-Mossad agent Gabriel Allon is called upon to investigate the death of a Russian journalist who may have had information he wanted to reveal to the West. This fast-paced novel is about uncontrolled arms sales from Russian arms dealers, aided by Russia's president and former KGB operatives who are now wealthy independent brokers and contractors. These arms merchants operate with impunity, selling all manner of weapons to terrorist organizations throughout the Middle East and Africa.

Moscow Rules is highly readable informative, and, most chillingly, timely.
