ROBERT'S BLOG
by Robert Larios, CEO, The Club

'This Person Is a Person'

When Jessica Mertlich – neither a Club Member nor an LA resident – emailed the Club last November, one of the first thoughts I had was: Angels Flight. I'll tell you why in a moment.

Jessica had just found her long-lost brother, Troy Mertlich, in a "People We See" feature created by Association CEO John Hawkins. He had interviewed Troy in 2015.

("People We See" is the Club's series of interviews of those who live on the streets of Los Angeles. They have names, stories, tragedies and sometimes wisdom, just like the rest of us.)

John's interview with Troy was the 70th in the series. This month's "People We See" is the 108th. And yet John remembered Troy immediately from eight years ago. Our editor, John Burnes, also remembered Troy. I did, too – I last saw him years ago sitting on the ground near Angels Flight downtown.

John Hawkins told Jessica why he interviewed the homeless, including her brother. He said: "This person is a person." It is as simple as that.

I like to think that Troy sitting next to Angels Flight is meaningful: After at least two decades living on the streets, he still knew his family – and strangers like us who saw him there – didn't forget about him before he took his final flight to the angels. Truly no one is ever forgotten.

Thank You, Sgt: I congratulate Sgt. Belinda Nettles on her retirement from Airport Police after 34 years of City service. When we restarted Alive! more than 20 years ago, we needed contacts to help us tell the good-news stories of City employees. Sgt. Nettles proved cheerful and very helpful in telling those stories from her department. Thank you, Sgt. Nettles. We wish you a happy retirement.

Troy Mertlich and Association CEO John Hawkins, 2015.

An Anniversary:

In 1998, I started my first job after college at the Los Angeles City Employees Association, Inc. and the Employees Club of California. I was 22 years old and had no idea what I was doing. Twenty-five years later, I'm celebrating my silver anniversary at the same organization. I have learned many lessons over the years, but the four that stand out to me on this special anniversary are:

1. Be grateful for what you have rather than dwelling on the things you do not have.
2. Save the people rather than saving the numbers. Put people before profits.
3. The path to your fulfillment includes actions that have meaning, relevance and contribution.
4. A support network is important for success in life.

Thank you all for being a part of my journey. I look forward to serving you now and well into the future.

¡Gracias por leer!

Applying for Retirement Online

Members are encouraged to submit their retirement application 60 days before their retirement date when using LACERS' new Retirement Application Portal (RAP). The RAP is a great asset to LACERS Members that helps to streamline the retirement process. While the filing period is within 30 to 60 days of your retirement date, starting your application early and submitting it on the first day you can at the 60-day-prior mark, will allow for a couple of benefits. These include having ample time to discover any complications and address them without having to move your retirement date, as well as ensuring LACERS staff has time to meet your retirement date request.

For example, if your desired retirement date is July 15, 2023, you would have aimed to submit your retirement application in the portal on May 16, 2023. For more information, please visit lacers.org/applying-retirement.

The Pipes Are Calling

SANITATION OPENS ONE OF ITS BIGGEST ONGOING PROJECTS.

PUBLIC WORKS: On March 16, the day before St. Patrick's Day, Public Works/Sanitation and Environment celebrated the completion and opening of one of its most prominent projects – the Dual Force Main sewer line. The project constructed a second main sewer line from the Venice pumping plant to the Hyperion Water Treatment Plant in southern Playa del Rey.

The new force main sewer will be used in tandem with the existing force main sewer to provide sewage conveyance capacity, pipeline redundancy, and the ability to assess and conduct maintenance activities on the existing line, which dates from 1960.

Construction on the second-line project began in 2017.

Several departments contributed efforts to make the project a reality, including Public Works/Engineering, Public Works/Contract Administration, Mayor's Office, City Council, LADOT, and others.

Congratulations to all! ●

Pulling the symbolic lever to officially open the Dual Force Main sewer line project were (from left) John Reamer, Inspector of Public Works/Contract Administration; Susanna Reyes, Commissioner, Board of Public Works; Barbara Romero, Director and General Manager, Public Works/Sanitation and Environment; District 11 Councilwoman Traci Park; Tracy Quinn, Heal the Bay; and Ted Allen, City Engineer

SANITATION OPENS ITS RECONSTRUCTED N. HOLLYWOOD WASTEWATER CONVEYANCE FACILITY.

PUBLIC WORKS: On April 10, Public Works/Sanitation and Environment celebrated the opening of the newly reconstructed North Hollywood Conveyance Facility, which has been redesigned to better support community residents in the East San Fernando Valley. The rebuild was designed to improve wastewater management throughout the area with the convenience of a more modern and environmentally sound infrastructure.

"This spring's extraordinary rainfall has reminded us all of our need to maintain the maximum capacity and efficiency of our wastewater management resources," said Council President Paul Krekorian, whose district includes the new project. "The reconstruction of the North Hollywood Conveyance Facility is only the first in a series of updates to this critically important system. The completion of the North Hollywood site is a major milestone."

The building features high-efficiency solar panels as well as a cool roof.

The North Hollywood Conveyance Facility is the second of the five existing conveyance facilities slated for complete redevelopment. Public Works/Engineering's Architectural Division has been working with Sanitation and Public Works/Contract Administration since 2006 in planning these facilities for design and construction.

The reconstruction of the North Hollywood facility, which was built originally in 1967, took approximately two years.

In March, Sanitation also celebrated the opening of another major distribution project – the Venice/Playa del Rey Dual Force Main sewer line.

Congratulations to all for the completion of this important conveyance system. ●

¡Buen provecho!

Chef Larios

Warm Buttered Shrimp Baguettes with Creamy Lemon Slaw and Seasoned Potato Wedges

INGREDIENTS: Serves 2

- 12 ounces Yukon Gold potatoes
- 2 scallions
- 1 lemon
- 1 teaspoon paprika
- 1 teaspoon garlic powder
- 2 tablespoon mayonnaise
- 2 tablespoon sour cream
- 1 teaspoon celery salt
- 4 ounces coleslaw
- 10 ounces shrimp
- 2 demi baguettes
- 2 tablespoons extra virgin olive oil
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 2 tablespoons butter
- Sea salt and pepper, to taste

UTENSILS YOU WILL NEED:

- Grater
- Medium pot
- Strainer
- Large pan
- Medium bowl
- Baking dish
- Aluminum foil

DIRECTIONS:

1 Preheat oven to 425 degrees. Wash and dry all produce. Cut potatoes into ½-inch-thick wedges. Trim and thinly slice scallions, separating whites from greens. Zest and halve lemon.

2 Toss potatoes on a baking sheet with a large drizzle of olive oil, half the garlic powder (you'll use the rest later), salt and pepper. Roast on top rack until browned and tender, 20-25 minutes.

3 Meanwhile, in a medium bowl, combine mayonnaise, sour cream, half the celery salt (you'll use the rest later), a big squeeze of lemon juice, and 1 ½ teaspoons sugar. Add coleslaw and scallion greens; toss to coat. Season generously with salt and pepper. Set aside to marinate.

4 Place 1 tablespoon butter in a small microwave-safe bowl; microwave until melted, 30 seconds. Slice baguettes lengthwise, stopping before you get all the way through. (Alternatively, halve buns lengthwise.) Spread melted butter onto cut sides of buns; toast until golden brown.

5 While buns toast, rinse shrimp under cold water; pat dry with paper towels. Toss in a second medium bowl with a large drizzle of olive oil, a big pinch of salt and pepper, half the paprika, remaining garlic powder, and remaining celery salt. Heat a large drizzle of olive oil in a large pan over medium-high heat. Once hot, add shrimp and scallion whites. Cook, stirring occasionally, until shrimp is pink and cooked through, 3-4 minutes. Turn off heat. Stir in 1 tablespoon butter and lemon zest to taste.

6 Fill toasted buns with shrimp and as much slaw as you like. Divide shrimp rolls between plates along with potato wedges. Slice any remaining lemon into wedges and serve on the side. Enjoy!

Food Lover's Dictionary:

Paprika [pa-PREE-kuh]:

Used as a seasoning and garnish for a plethora of savory dishes, paprika is a powder made by grinding aromatic sweet red pepper pods. The flavor of paprika can range from mild to pungent and hot, the color from bright orange-red to deep blood red. All supermarkets carry mild paprikas, while ethnic markets must be searched out for more pungent varieties.

Food Quote - "I make some of my best recipes with a simple homemade stock. Keep shrimp shells stored in a plastic bag in the freezer. When you have almost a gallon-bag full, you can make a stock in 30 minutes that you can use in soups and sauces. You can then freeze the stock in ice-cube trays." – Emeril Lagasse

One More Search

After a decade of doing Google searches for him, one day this past November, the search algorithms hit just the right moment. She found him mentioned in Alive!'s "People We See" number 70, published back in January 2015.

She remembers: "On Nov. 21, 2022, I caught a glimpse of my brother's urn on my way to bed and I began to feel overcome by a desperate need to see his face just one last time, even two years after we got the news that he had died. I felt a sudden urge to do a search for him online again, which I thankfully followed. I whipped out my phone and typed 'Troy Mertlich' into the search engine, expecting the same results I've always gotten – nothing. For reasons I don't understand, [Google] was on my side that night (or just maybe my brother in spirit)."

Her search found a letter to the editor that Alive! published a month after the original "People We See" was printed in 2015. "If it wasn't for [the letter writer] using Troy's name I would not have found the article, and I'm so grateful that it did," she said. "I immediately reached out to Alive!"

"We were stunned to receive Jes' email," said Employees Association CEO John Hawkins, the author of the more than 100 "People We See" interviews. John had interviewed Troy for the original article in 2015 and remembered him. "Hi Jes," John Hawkins wrote in response to Jes' inquiry. "First, I am so sorry to hear about the passing of your brother; that always saddens me.

"Secondly, we had some luck in finding the actual article. I have done about 100 or so of these interviews, and I distinctly remember interviewing Troy. He talked about your parents and his upbringing. It's very rare for someone living on the street to be complimentary about their parents, yet he talked quite a bit about how much they loved each other and how good they were to the family growing up. He also talked quite a bit about what a good upbringing he had, a happy upbringing, and had only good things to say about his siblings. When he talked about you and his parents he really lit up with warm, positive energy. I'll never forget it.

"I am glad I could play a part in your search for more information on your brother."

The Club sent a copy of the interview to Jes. After seeing Troy's photos after his being away for 28 years, she remembers, "This was an amazing birthday gift! As someone who thought she'd never visually 'see' her brother again, I feel incredibly lucky to have photos to remember him by.

"While Troy looked very different, being 28 years older than when I saw him last, I immediately knew it was him," Jes continues. "I was filled with a wild combination of excitement, love, compassion and tranquility. I wasn't expecting happy photos since the homeless are rarely depicted in that manner in media, but I'm so grateful that's how I got to see him again, just one last time."

The Club honors the Mertlich family for never giving up on finding out what happened to their brother, Troy, and for letting Alive! tell their story. We wish them peace and understanding. ●

Growing Up With Troy

After finding the Alive! article on her brother, Troy Mertlich, his sister, Jes, reached out to her family for their memories of Troy, and she passed those memories along to us. (Their father has passed away.) Truly, no one is ever forgotten.

Michelle Perry, Sister

Michelle

Troy grew up in a family of six. He was the oldest of four children and the only boy. He had curly Kirk Cameron hair that blended in nicely growing up in the 1980s.

He loved all animals and had many – he was surrounded by a dog, hundreds of fish and exotic birds. One of the parrots would scream his name frequently throughout the day, especially when he wanted to eat. He loved cats but was highly allergic. That didn't stop him from rescuing two kittens and hiding them in his room. It was several weeks before his secret was discovered.

Troy was very fortunate to grow up with a large family garden and five-course homemade meals almost every night. Because of this, he loved to cook and would create delicious meals. The oldest sister still makes one of his knock-off ramen dishes to this day.

His parents had more hobbies than most people. Pottery, jewelry making, baking, canning every food imaginable, and painting are just a few. His father loved the outdoors. He took the entire family out on many adventures like rock hounding, exploring the desert, fishing, and hiking in remote areas. His mother was an excellent baker and painter. This may be where Troy obtained his talent for art. He was excellent at drawing. Had his path been different, he would've made an extraordinary graphic designer, architect or something of the like.

My family – we're just nice people. We're givers. Troy had a gentle heart and tried to be kind to everyone. One summer, he even worked in a care center for adults and children with all sorts of disabilities – mental and physical.

Unfortunately, living in a neighborhood of bullies (adults and children), he suffered from loneliness and low self-esteem. One neighbor, a troublemaker, led him down the path of being in the wrong place at the wrong time. This life also included drugs.

It's unknown what prompted Troy to be homeless. His family, especially his sisters, would've taken him in, in a heartbeat.

I thought he was dead because he left everything – everything that was near and dear to his heart – in his room. He left things that I'd never in a million years think he ever would have left. Wouldn't you at least take one or two of your prized possessions? He took nothing with him. I actually thought he was killed. You never want anybody to be hurt.

After years of us not knowing if he were dead or alive, he finally called his mom. She was very relieved yet sad about his choices. His oldest sister never talked to him again after he left. His two younger sisters were fortunate enough to be at his parent's home when he would randomly call a few times a year. His father died in 2011. Due to his mom's poor health, she moved in 2012, and Troy was no longer heard from again. His mother, who last talked to him in 2012, tried to stay in contact with specific law enforcement to keep tabs on him. In November 2020, his family was notified that he had passed away due to a drug overdose. He was found on the streets by a security guard. Troy was 49. We were all saddened but somewhat relieved. The path he had chosen was a hard one. We know he is now receiving all the love he gave to everyone, including all his sweet animals.

I had not talked to Troy in my whole adult life; he left the summer after I got married, at 20. But one time I was visiting Los Angeles on vacation. We were driving past Dodger Stadium. At that moment I felt this strong energy that told me, "Troy is here." And sure enough, within the week, he called my mom and told her he was staying right where we had just passed. If only we had known.

Michelle Perry holds a necklace and bowl her brother Troy made for her when they were young.

Jes Mertlich, Sister

Jes

I was eight years old when I last saw my brother, so I may not remember as many personal stories as the rest of my family. But I do remember how he made me feel seen, heard and loved. He never made me feel left out.

He inspired my love for music at a very young age (starting with the piano and eventually a little guitar). He played the guitar and was in bands. I wrote my very first song on the piano about my brother at age 9 or 10.

He also let me play "Sonic the Hedgehog" on his Sega, and let me pretend I knew what I was doing on his electric guitar. He also bought the best gifts and got me one of my favorites, Hawaiian Barbie.

I absolutely remember his love for animals and insects. He kept a pet black widow at one point.

He was bullied a lot, but I didn't know about that much because of our age difference. I've heard some truly horrific stories. He would get stabbed with a pencil when getting on his school bus, and other times the neighborhood kids would shoot BBs at him from their tree houses. It was beyond mean.

Troy was such a gentle soul. I thought he was the coolest. He was such a skilled artist as well and I kept his sketchbooks up until I moved out to go to college. He always smelled of Patchouli. I can also tell he was in love with working at the cat sanctuary he mentioned in your article. He spoke about that often when he called.

Troy Mertlich, 1985

Sheri Mertlich, Mom

Mom

Troy talked very well and very young. The doctors were so impressed with Troy that they ran tests on him. Afterwards they said he was highly intelligent and could become anything he wanted.

Another time when we were staying a weekend at a cabin, Troy caught his first fish in the stream, a big trout! He was so excited. I took several pictures of him with his trout. I'm not sure if he ate any of it, but he was so excited and happy!

Amy Mertlich, Sister

Amy

Michelle wrote a lot of my same thoughts in her blurb about Troy! Other than those, my memories are about his love of music, playing board games and taking stuff apart to see how it worked or to see if he could fix it. He took our very first computer apart months after getting it. He also fixed a bunch of tech equipment for one of the public libraries while doing community service hours. They rewarded him for that by decreasing his hours he needed to serve because they were so impressed and appreciative to have working equipment again. I remember the smile he had on his face that day or anytime you brought up that library!

Alive! AROUND THE WORLD

Letter From Morocco, Pt. 3 Cruise Ships, Movie Stars and Mosques

Wishing to see more of Morocco than just Marrakech, we hired a chauffeur to drive us three hours north early in the morning to the port of Casablanca. Our alternative option would have been to catch the Al Atlas high-speed train from Marrakech to the port of Casablanca. However, this also takes three hours and still entails hiring a driver to explore the port upon arrival.

Casablanca is very popular with European cruise ships as it is one of the largest artificial ports in the world and the eighth largest in the Arab world. Massive skyscrapers and office blocks surround it, and lots of colorful horn-honking trucks intermingle with overloaded donkey carts and motorcycles, a positive hive of activity but lacking the charm of other cities like Tangier, Marrakech and Chefchaouen.

Humphrey Bogart did not know what he was creating when he filmed Casablanca in a Hollywood film studio and not in the port in Morocco. Due to the worldwide popularity of the film, visiting tourists are constantly asking where Rick's cafe from the 1942 film was. Taking advantage of these requests, a former American diplomat to Morocco, Kathy Kriger, recreated Rick's Café in 2004. She converted a traditional Moroccan grand mansion with an open central courtyard into a bar similar to the one portrayed in the film. An authentic 1930s Pleyel piano was installed so the in-house pianist can play "As Time Goes By." Over and over.

When we visited Rick's Cafe, it had become a high-end restaurant with a very friendly but firm doorman to enforce the dress code. We witnessed budget cruise ship passengers in very casual sportswear with backpacks being turned away. The restaurant has become very avant-garde, with prices to match; after a few cocktails, it was time to leave and step back into the real world.

Our next destination was the Hassan II Mosque by the sea, with its 600-foot-tall green-tiled beveled minaret tower visible from nearly anywhere in the city just a short drive away. These beautiful grounds are indeed a sight to behold; a verse from the Koran says, "The throne of God was erected on the waters," so King Hassan II employed French architect Michel Pinseau to design an artificial peninsula jutting out into the bay. After eight years of construction, $600 million in expenditures and 80 million man-hours, it was completed and inaugurated on the prophet Muhammad's birthday in 1993. The mosque is the second largest in the Islamic world, after the one in Mecca, and is the only active mosque open to non-Muslims in Morocco. But you must dress respectfully, with no beachwear; only closed-toed shoes; long trousers; with arms and shoulders covered. Women don't have to cover their heads. To enforce this at the entrance, there is a security check. The ticket office, 120 dirhams (about $12), allows access to the National Museum and Mosque grounds. Walking from the main entrance towards the mosque, we were overcome by the beauty and graceful enormity of the grounds and... this architectural marvel.

Upon entering the mosque, we had to remove our shoes and were given a small green bag to put them into so we could carry them. For those who do not wear socks, plastic bags are provided to cover the feet. They are uncomfortable to walk in but better than bare feet on a carpeted floor traveled by millions! There are tours in three languages: English, French and Spanish, and our guide explained all about the impressive architecture of the prayer room with its 78 pillars supporting a cedar ceiling with an opening system so that, in summer, 20,000 worshippers can look up and see the heavens. There are still separate prayer areas for women.

In the past, before electricity, these large Muslim Towers did not have stairs inside but a ramp system so that older Imam could ride a small donkey up and down five times a day to call the faithful to prayer. One can only speculate who cleaned up the donkeys' daily surprises! There are no donkeys here; this minaret has a fast elevator that gets you to the top in one minute flat, with a laser beam directed toward Mecca. The building is earthquake resistant and has electric doors, and the floor has radiant heating; below is a vast car park and 41 marble fountains, used on special occasions by the faithful for ablutions before prayer.

Upon leaving the mosque, our chauffeur took us to a local eatery, then drove us to see the Old Medina souk; it's like traveling back in time, perfect for cruise ship passengers looking for unusual Moroccan food and spices, weird antiques, wooden statues, hand-made black soap, and other suspect vintage memorabilia. But I suggest keeping your wallet in your front pocket and avoiding wearing any expensive-looking jewelry.

The nice thing about having a chauffeur, after a long day of sightseeing, good food and ice-cold adult beverages, is that we could all nap on the road back to Marrakech.

Tip: Before visiting Morocco, I suggest learning a few Moroccan Arabic or French words. Most shop owners and taxi drivers speak only these two languages. A small start is "Shukran" (or in French, merci) – thank you.

Bon voyage mes amis.

Paul Egizi: Firefighter of the Year

FIREFIGHTERS ASSOCIATION HONORS CAPT. II PAUL EGIZI.

LAFD: LAFD Capt. II Paul Egizi was named Firefighter of the Year (2022) by the LA City Firefighters Association (LAFFA) for his professional accomplishments last year.

A luncheon honoring Capt. Egizi took place April 20 at the Millennium Biltmore Hotel.

Capt. Egizi has 36 years of City service.

Paul joined the LAFD in February 1987 and has held the ranks of Paramedic, Firefighter, Apparatus Operator, Captain I and Captain II. In addition to serving in Fire Stations throughout all areas of the City, he has worked in special duty assignments at the training academy as the Drill Master and at Air Operations as the Assistant Section Commander.

Wanting to contribute even more to the City and his community, Paul served as an

He has been involved in various projects and committees, including the Elevator Rescue Kit, Air Operations, Operational Risk Management, Brush Committee, Recruitment, and has participated on several Serious Incident Review Teams.

One of Paul's greatest areas of influence comes from his passion for teaching, where his mantra is "learn something and teach something every day." He has been involved in Department seminars, writing training bulletins and teaching classes for both the Department and the State of California certification system. His greatest joy comes from teaching and mentoring at the individual and Fire Station level.

Off duty, Paul is a dedicated family man. He and his wife Debbie have been married for 34 years. He is the proud father of four adult daughters and "Papa" to his granddaughter Kira. He is also a beloved neighbor and friend as he lends a helping hand when and wherever he can. Paul is a member of the American Cancer Society and has participated in several Relays for Life. In 2018, he was a bone marrow donor. Over the years, Paul has been involved with Firefighters for Christ, coaching sports and has attended Cornerstone Church.

Capt. Egizi embodies the Department's core values of service, professionalism, integrity, respect, innovation and trust. The LAFD and the City of Los Angeles Firefighters Association are proud to recognize Capt. II Paul Egizi as the 2022 Firefighter of the Year.

The Club congratulates Capt. Egizi on this big honor. ●

MEET YOUR BOARD

by Beverly J. Clark, Publicity Director

RLACEI Board Member Ann Seales

Ann Patricia Seales joined the City of Los Angeles in October 1994. She started her journey with the City at the Los Angeles Police Department (LAPD) as a Police Service Representative (911 Operator). From that position she rose to Instructor. Ann then joined the City Clerk's Office as a Principal Clerk and reminisces, "I had an awesome opportunity to participate in the City's electoral process." After two years at the City Clerk's Office, she joined the Los Angeles City Employees' Retirement System (LACERS).

Ann Seales

"As a City Employee for just under a couple months short of 28 years, I had the privilege of working with several departments before retiring in August 2022," she says "I had short stints at the LADWP and the Harbor Department, however, most of my City career was with LACERS, where I gained my expertise in retirement operations and gained a passion for sharing with City employees the details of the City's retirement benefits.

"I ended my City career at LACERS, managing the Member Support Section of the Retirement Services Division," she continues "My passion for all things retirement is what makes being a part of RLACEI exciting. To be able to share with members and potential members the importance of being proactive in our benefits is a challenge I look forward to, and I hope to serve with the same enthusiasm that I brought as an active employee."

Ann says she comes from a relatively small family comprising of her mom and three siblings. However, she has several nieces, nephews, great nieces and great nephews, whom she enjoys mentoring. In addition to helping others, she enjoys traveling. "Thus far, I have traversed four continents and look forward to doing a whole lot more travel in my retirement!"

The RLACEI Board welcomes Ann as our newest member and looks forward to her contributions and service to the City retirement community. ●

LACERS BOARD UPDATE

LACERS Members Respond to Anthem Advantage PPO Survey

Michael R. Wilkinson, LACERS Commissioner • Email: MikeWilkinson4LACERS@gmail.com

Michael R. Wilkinson

LACERS has released the results of a survey of the more than 4,000 members who are currently enrolled in the Anthem Medicare Advantage PPO. The purpose of the survey was to measure the satisfaction of our members with the new Medicare Advantage plan that replaced the Anthem Medicare Supplement Plan in January 2021. Medicare is the primary payer in a Medicare Supplement Plan and the plan is the secondary payer for benefits. In a Medicare Advantage plan, everything is provided by the plan.

The survey was conducted over 10 weeks, covered 15 questions and included an open-ended section to provide comments. The results were based on 275 members who responded to the survey. The survey was sent by email or mail and received a response rate 35 percent higher than industry standards, per Anthem.

Results from the responses received showed 66 percent of the members were satisfied or very satisfied with the PPO Advantage plan and 68 percent were satisfied or very satisfied with the medical benefits offered. This is slightly better than the 65 percent average satisfaction rate of other Anthem clients. On the negative side, 12 percent were very unsatisfied, 10 percent unsatisfied and 10 percent neutral.

One of the survey questions was about Anthem's customer service. 53 percent replied satisfied or very satisfied, 14 percent neutral and 17 percent unsatisfied or very unsatisfied and 16 percent not applicable.

Another question on the survey asked about the enhanced benefits offered under the Advantage Plan that were not offered on the supplement plan. 47 percent of the respondents answered that it was not applicable which Anthem believes was due to members either not using or not aware of the services. 19 percent answered satisfied or very satisfied with the enhanced benefits. 25 percent were neutral and 9 percent unsatisfied or very unsatisfied.

The survey also asked an open-ended question about what could be done to improve the plan. The top five responses were: 1) satisfied with the plan; 2) go back to Medicare Supplement Plan; 3) add more benefits to the plan; 4) issues with preauthorization; and 5) providers not accepting the plan. Only six percent of those responding to the survey asked to return to the old plan.

During a recent LACERS Benefits Administration Committee that I chair, I questioned the Anthem representatives closely on two of those issues, preauthorizations and problems with doctors not accepting the plan. I asked about at least one situation brought to my attention by a member where the doctor would accept the Anthem Medicare Supplement plan, but not the Anthem Medicare Advantage plan. The Anthem representative promised to work with our members to solve problems with both issues.

I am aware that LACERS health staff has contacted Anthem and resolved most of the difficulties with the new plan.

Finally, a few members have contacted me and are not happy with the Medicare Advantage Plan. They would like the former plan back. I have been contacted by other members who love the new plan and the free services, zero copay and zero deductibles for most services.

LACERS is in the process of evaluating the responses to the RFP for health plans starting in 2024 and is asking for a Medicare Supplement proposal as well as a Medicare Advantage proposal. Eight responses have been received, but it is not clear how many proposals are for a Medicare Supplement. I will follow this process closely as it is reviewed by staff and the Benefits Administration Committee. ●

RETIREES UPDATE

The Consequential Position of the LACERS Board President

by Tom Moutes, RLACEI Director
 Email: Tom.Moutes@RLACEI.org

Tom Moutes

Who cares who is elected LACERS Board President? You should care, but unfortunately these elections frequently fly under most people's radar.

The LACERS Board President is an important position for several reasons. The president usually helps shape the agenda for Board meetings and oversees the conduct of the meetings. This influence can have real consequences for LACERS members. The voting for Board President is scheduled to take place every July and when there is a vacancy in the office due to a Board member resignation.

Because the Mayor gets to appoint four of the seven Board members, the Board President (not coincidentally) tends to be a mayoral appointee. This tends to happen despite the facts that: (1) one of the appointees has to be a LACERS Retiree, who should be a balancing point between the appointees and elected members; and (2) that the elected members of the Board frequently have more experience, as the appointees sometimes get moved to other City boards or get pushed aside with each new mayoral administration. Currently, the top three Board members in terms of longevity are: (1) Mike Wilkinson (elected); Sung Won Sohn (appointee); and Annie Chao (elected).

When who the Board President is matters most is when a controversial item appears on the Board agenda. Past examples of controversial items include the Early Retirement Incentive Plan (ERIP) in 2009 and the occasional conversation regarding lowering LACERS assumed rate of investment return. Each of these items has short-term impacts on the City budget, so the Mayor tends to have great interest in them. It is fascinating to see how the Board President deals with these controversial items, from dealing with them just like any other matter, to being so conflicted that they don't know what to do, to caving in to what they believe the Mayor would want. Each of these reactions has been on full display over the years, and two of those three reactions don't serve the LACERS membership well.

Frequently, the most prominent mayoral appointee just happens to be elected President. I assume this is part of the negotiation when getting the appointee to agree to serve – not that anyone should be coordinating a Board vote outside of a meeting..

Whoever the new Board President is, let's hope he or she takes their responsibility to the LACERS membership seriously and does what is in the best interests of those members, as they are required to do by the State Constitution and City Charter. ●

John's Picture Perfect Contest

John Hawkins, Association CEO

WIN A $25 AMAZON E-GIFT CARD

“This photo was taken at my first Dodgers game! It was quite an experience, since it was a game against the St. Louis Cardinals. The Dodgers didn’t win; however, I got to see Albert Pujols hit his 700th home run!”

– Sharon Khaw, LADWP

John’s comment: Talk about history: The first time you watched future Hall-of-Famer Albert Pujols play was the night he hit his 699th and 700th home runs. It was also the first time he had the honor of playing in front of you! Seriously, though, I like how you captured the gracious symmetrical lines of Dodger Stadium by compressing them into their linear elements. I think it’s the most beautiful ballpark in the world, and your photographic eye showed why. Well done!

“Here are my son and husband walking into Dodger Stadium ready to see the Dodgers play on the Fourth of July.”

– Stephanie Burkhart, LAPD/Communications

John’s comment: This very POV shot is all about the feeling of getting close to the ballpark. I can hear the crowd, people’s voices getting excited, LAPD helicopters maybe overhead, the stadium announcer making pre-game speeches, and on and on. This photo accomplishes a lot!

This month’s theme: BASEBALL

“This is my granddaughter, Elyse Bunge, at a [Cleveland] Guardians game. I love her expression holding a baseball!”

– Wanda Fong, Retired, Library

John’s comment: I love this shot, Wanda! Elyse’s expression is exactly what she should be feeling. Here’s hoping it never goes away! Thanks for submitting!

“Second day during the Dodgers’ opening week. I was capturing the beautiful sunset from my seat.”

– Leticia Zepeda, Retired, Public Works/Sanitation and Environment

John’s comment: Just a gorgeous night at the ballpark, Leticia. You captured the feeling perfectly with the sunset and the scoreboard. Well done!

Open Houses Begin This Month

SANITATION’S POPULAR OPEN HOUSES AT SIX YARDS RETURN AFTER PANDEMIC PAUSE.

PUBLIC WORKS: Public Works’ Sanitation and Environment has released the schedule of its popular open houses for 2023.

These are Sanitation’s first open houses since they were paused for three years during the pandemic.

Each of Sanitation’s six waste shed district yards will open to the public in a series of free Saturday events. The Open House program showcases Sanitation’s residential curbside collection programs with the promotion of proper recycling practices and information about bulky item collections. Each event will feature trash truck and equipment demonstrations in addition to facility tours, information booths, recycling games, and refreshments.

In 2019, the last open house before the break, more than 6,000 residents attended the open houses with more than 230 City Employees who volunteered their time to give back to the neighborhoods they serve.

There is no charge for admission and all ages are welcome, but Sanitation requests that pets be left at home for safety. ●

LAFD HOSTS TENTH GIRLS CAMP TO INTRODUCE FIRE CAREERS TO GIRLS.

LAFD: Over the April 15-16 weekend, the LAFD hosted its annual Girls Camp to introduce fire skills to high-school-aged young women and encourage their interest in becoming Firefighters.

It was the department's tenth Girls Camp. The program resumed last year after taking a two-year hiatus due to the pandemic.

The camp was held at Drill Tower 81 in Panorama City.

The goal of the camp is to instill confidence, leadership and courage in young women while providing awareness of a potential career in the fire service. The curriculum included interactive training exercises with power tools, ladders, hose lines and extinguishers; basic training in first-aid and CPR; and physical fitness, leadership and team-building events.

The program is an "inspirational journey for young women, according to the LAFD. Female Fire Chiefs, Captains and Firefighter/Paramedics from across California teach the campers how to push themselves to the limit and achieve anything they want, whether in a fire career or elsewhere. Well done, LAFD! ●

LAFD's first Fire Chief, Kristin Crowley, shares advice about fire careers with girls camp attendees.

THANK YOU! The Club thanks Battalion Chief Kristine Larson, photographer Gary Apodaca and Club Ambassador Jackie Koci Tamayo, County of Santa Clara, for their assistance in producing this story. We honor your service.

People We See

Shelterless in Los Angeles.

Meet Kenyatta McNeil

INTERVIEW

LOCATION OF INTERVIEW:

Near Third Street downtown. "Kenyatta is a very smart, creative and proud woman."

– John Hawkins

BIRTHDAY:

Jan. 18, 1973 (50)

BIRTHPLACE:

"Danville, Illinois"

Follow "People We See" on Instagram:

peopleweseela

To California: "I moved with my mother to Oakland, California when I was 15."

Education: "I went to Oakland High, California, and graduated in 1991. I went to Sonoma State University for two years, then Merritt College for a year."

Favorite childhood memory: "When I used to go to the fair in Georgetown, Illinois, I like the elephant ears (snack) – they would put powdered sugar and whipped cream on, with strawberries."

First jobs: "After college, I wrote for newspapers in San Francisco – the Youth Outlook, and I wrote commentaries for KQED 88.5 FM. I did that for 15 years."

Her story: "After my jobs, I moved to LA with my mom. It's ironic because I used to live across the street [from the interview location] in the St. George Apartments for 12 years. But I lost it when I went to jail for 11 months for assaulting my boyfriend's ex on the public bus she was driving. When I got out of jail, everything was gone."

On street: "About six months now."

First night on the street: "It was very, very horrendous. It's been impactful and really hard. It's been super cold out here."

Favorite book: "I'm a published writer myself. I do not really have a book that I like reading, but I'm a writer. I write all the time."

Advice for a high-schooler: "Set a foundation for yourself and try not to overdo things. Try take things slowly and plan for the future and for the long run, because you never know. Things happen really fast."

Drugs: "If you try drugs, you could get hooked. It's not something you can control. One day I was hooked on heroin. I'm on methadone right now. Heroin isn't the worst; crystal is."

If you were Mayor: "I would have places where we can rest, you know? Not so much a shelter but like a community place where we can go in there and watch TV, read, use a phone, restrooms and showers. 24 hours."

In five years: "Hopefully, I'm off the streets. I'm scared to get a tent; it's scary to have a tent when you are a single woman. It's safer to be exposed than be in a tent."

The Club gave Kenyatta toiletries, food, $20 and bottled water.

The interview was conducted by Association CEO John Hawkins.

{ In this feature, Association CEO John Hawkins introduces you to people you see every day, but you might not know who they are. The Club reminds you that we all have names and our stories to tell. }
